VOL. XIV.....NO. 4212. NEW-YORK, SATURDAY, MARCH 25, 1865. PRICE FOUR CENTS

A STRANGE STORY.

We are permitted to publish the following private letter from a gentleman seventy-three years of age, which speaks for itself:

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 20, 1864.

Mr. Thomas Woodward:

MY DEAR "TOM:" Some sixty odd years ago, we, then lads, were at times much amused by the vocal music of the barn, where our happy fellows were wont to indulge in singing ballads of a very primitive character; and among them there was one that pleased us more than all the others, which jingled off somewhat after this manner:

"Adam was laid in a slumber,
When a rib was removed from his side,
And when he awoke in wonder,
He beheld a most beautiful bride."

I know you must remember it, for we have laughed over it scores of times since we became men. We were most tickled by what we deemed the extreme hyperbolic character of the whole song. But "Tom," I now think that there was no hyperbole, exaggeration or any manner of fiction in it, and that it was but a true, simple recital of facts. A little while ago, you know, there was a fellow they called "Anderson, the Wizard of the North," who kept the world "agape" by his necromancy. We have a greater wizard than he, and, all think, more useful and not less wonderful, who makes people gape indeed, and gape to some purpose. I yesterday went to this wizard, (Dr. Colton, No. 19 Cooper Institute, who I saw there,) and asked him if he were the magician who took teeth out by legerdemain! "Yes, Sir." Then, please go on with your hocus-pocus, and out with these six teeth of mine, that have of late become a nuisance to me. Then I was bidden to open my mouth (gape,) I did, and it was propped open by a cork; a bag of wind was handed to me, out of which I filled my lungs, and then was "laid in a slumber;" and when the Doctor, or magician, or whatever he be, gave me a gentle shake to rouse me up, I awoke, and then I was kindly assured that my teeth were out; and but for such assurance I should not presently have known it. I was at no time conscious of anything being done in a mechanical way, or, indeed, in any way, during the time I laid in a "slumber," and I, as Adam had, awoke in a "wonder," under the belief, (to which belief I still adhere,) that no resort at all was had to any of the appliances usual in extracting teeth, and that the Doctor is in reality in league with the devil

God bless you. Your brother as ever,

GEO. WOODWARD.

Mr. THOS. WOODWARD, No. 31 Ferry-st., New-York.

FACTS BRIEFLY STATED.

There are several marked advantages in the Nitrous Oxide or Laughing Gas over Chloroform and Ether as an anæsthetic.

First—It is entirely harmless in its effects. No unpleasant or dangerous symptoms attend or follow its inhalation.

Second—There is no taste or smell to the gas, and its effect upon the lungs is perfectly agreeable: the sensations excited are usually in the highest degree pleasurable.

Third—Enough can be administered to produce perfect insensibility without risk or danger. It has been used with entire success on patients on whom chloroform and ether had entirely failed, or failed with the quantity it was thought safe to administer.

THE COLTON DENTAL ASSOCIATION

have administered the gas—since Dr. Colton first introduced it to the profession—to something over four thousand patients, and without a single failure, or the first instance of unpleasant effects.

On the 4th of February, 1864, we drew up a testimonial certificate for patients to sign, leaving a blank space opposite each name for any remarks which the signers might think proper to make. (It now contains 2,488 names.) The following are a few of these remarks:

"A pleasure rather than a pain."
"Rich as Cœsus, and in heaven certain."
"A dream of bliss."
"Exquisite, good, very, better, best."
"Mahomet's seventh heaven, no word for it."
"Language fails to express the pleasing sensation."
"Bully for you; it is first-rate."
"Came five hundred miles in fear and dread. Have been most happily relieved—no pain."
"I was a sceptic, but confess to my entire conversion."
"A delightful journey on the cars."
"A pleasant sensation, without the least pain."
"Wonderful invention—Dr. Colton deserves an oil well."
"Best institution on earth—came 300 hundred miles to have teeth extracted."
"Didn't hurt one bit"—by a lady 76 years of age.
"I shall will Dr. Colton a house and farm; also the operator."
"Have been in the seventh heaven."
"Have been to Fishkill sleigh-riding."
"I thank the Lord for this discovery; I was perfectly unconscious'"—by a distinguished dentist.
"No pain whatever; Colton's gas not to be sneezed at."
"This beats my chloroform"—by a dentist.
"Splendid; no pain, no trouble, no anything."
"Ten teeth done in one minute, and the patient did not know it; no pain"—by an editor.
"The happiest moment of my life, while under the influence of the gas."
"Went to the opera."
"Was willing to bet $100 to a cent my teeth were not out."
"I thought I was on a pic-nic."
"No pain whatever—felt rather jolly."
"Gen. Grant for Richmond—Colton Association for the teeth."
"Entirely without pain, will never inhale chloroform again."
"Seemed to be in Paradise."

The following are a few of the names of persons for whom we have extracted teeth, and who have signed our certificate:

|---|---|
| C. B. Dahlgren, U. S. N. | Mrs. Rev. Wm. Anderson. |
| Edmund Coffin. | Mrs. Rev. H. Loomis. |
| A. A. Howard, M. D. | Mrs. Geo. Chesterman. |
| John H. Johnson, M. D. | Mrs. Carris Hodine. |
| F. Hollick, M. D. | Mrs. Jas. P. Harper. |

| Benj. H. Willis. | Mrs. J. H. Bache. |
| John Palmer. | Mrs. C. W. Adams. |
| H. C. Jones, M. D. | Mrs. H. Snyder. |
| Halsey W. Knapp. | Mrs. E. Payne. |

| Norman W. Kingsley, den't. | Mrs. S. J. Allen. |
| Thos. B. Mills. | Miss Grace Esterbrook. |
| Henry B. Colby, U. S. N. | Miss Hattie Knapp. |

And two thousand seven hundred others.

People will often say, "I thought the laughing gas exhilarated, and made people feel like laughing, dancing, &c." So it will, if breathed in small doses; but a large dose overpowers by over-exhilaration. The patient passes beyond the point of mere exhilaration into profound anæsthetic sleep.

To secure the very best dental skill which the country affords, we pay one dentist, Dr. A. Y. PADDOCK, a salary equal to the income of the first dentists of New-York. He is under no control or dictation, but exercises his own good judgment in giving advice to patients. Thorough knowledge and long experience have given him great skill and expertness in extracting.

We have administered the gas to all ages, from three to seventy-six years, and with the same uniform good results.

A WORD FROM THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.

NEW-YORK, March 8, 1865.

Having occasion recently to undergo a minor surgical operation of much severity, I embraced the opportunity to try the anæsthetic effect of nitrous oxide gas, administered by Dr. G. Q. COLTON. I found it perfectly satisfactory. I was put into a sound sleep in a few seconds, and remained so until the operation and dressing of the wound were completed. While looking for the incisions to begin, I found they had all been done.

JOHN H. GRISCOM,
Physician to New-York Hospital.

"This gas is entirely harmless in its effects, and while a small dose will exhilarate, a larger dose will induce anæsthesia or sound sleep, during which the most painful surgical operations can be performed without pain or the knowledge of the patient."—Extract from Lecture by Prof. R. Ogden Doremus.

We extract teeth without pain—without any pain whatever—rendering the operation to many patients a real pleasure.

Besides extracting, we fill teeth, and insert sets of teeth, and do it, we think, in the very best manner. As much of our extracting comes from patients sent to us by other dentists, we do not expect or desire to do any other dental work for such.

Land Co-Operation with the Fleet Before Mobile.

Ten Thousand Horsemen on a Raid Through Alabama.

REBEL RAILROADS TO BE DESTROYED.

The Gulf City Their Probable Destination.

CAMPAIGN IN WESTERN VIRGINIA.

General Stoneman's Cavalry Pushing Over the Mountains.

Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.

NASHVILLE, Friday, March 17, 1865.

The great cavalry expedition, under Maj.-Gen. J. H. WILSON, has finally started, and all connection between them and Gen. THOMAS' headquarters at Nashville is now severed.

Fifteen thousand cavalry and mounted infantry were at Eastport, Miss., two weeks ago, waiting till the heavy rains and high water should have subsided. Of these, 10,000 left their place of rendezvous two or three days ago, and are now dashing through Alabama, with a view to the destruction of the railroads, &c., in that State and Mississippi, and to cooperate with several other expeditions by land and water, which started some time ago, with Mobile as their objective point.

The first news we shall hear of them will probably be from the "City on the Gulf."

Maj.-Gen. D. S. STANLEY commands the Fourth Army Corps, now on its way to Knoxville to participate in the Western Virginia campaign. It is estimated at from 15,000 to 18,000. Six thousand cavalry, under Gen. STONEMAN or Gen. GILLEM, have left Knoxville, and are already pointing through the mountains for Virginia. The Fourth Division of the Twenty-third Corps, consisting mainly of Kentucky and Tennessee and North Carolina troops, garrison Knoxville, and is quartered in that vicinity. Brig.-Gen. DAVIS TILLSON commands in East Tennessee, headquarters in Knoxville.

Gen. GILLEM apprehends no serious opposition on this side of the Salt Springs in Virginia.

A Rumor that Mobile has Been Evacuated by the Rebels, and is in Our Possession.

CAIRO, Friday, March 24.

A report was received in Memphis, from Holly Springs, that Mobile was evacuated, and the city, with an immense quantity of war implements, was in our possession.

REBEL REPORTS.

From the Richmond Dispatch, March 22.

Recent advices from Tennessee are to the effect that GILLEM has been reinforced by THOMAS, with cavalry, at Knoxville, Tennessee, preparatory, it is thought, for a move into Southwestern Virginia. THOMAS has garrisoned Tunnel Hill and Chattanooga with three regiments at each place. Three small regiments of negroes, Dutch and Irish are at Bridgeport, and two regiments at Stevenson. The garrisons are very small from Stevenson to Huntsville. The rest of THOMAS's army is at Huntsville, Decatur and Eastport. ROSECRANS has five brigades in Middle Tennessee, scouring the country for supplies and recruits. The "rebel" soldiers they catch have the choice of joining the Yankees or being shot. STOKES's brigade is the most conspicuous in the work.

THE COMING ATTACK ON MOBILE.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

MONDAY, March 20.

The Yankee prisoners have been removed from Cahaba to Selma, Ala., on account of the high water flooding the country so that supplies could not reach them. The garrison at Pensacola was 6,000 strong on the 8th. Their preparations continue for operations on Mobile and Selma.

DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF.

From Mobile Bay—The Firing on a Flag-of-Truce Boat—Just Punishment—The Murder of the Rebel Gen. Hindman.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW-ORLEANS, Thursday, March 16, 1865.

This city was wild, on Monday last, over the rumor of the commencement of the assault on Mobile, published by all the evening papers. I immediately telegraphed you a contradiction, and also a brief account of the action that originated the false reports.

On Friday last, our authorities sent a boat with a flag of truce flying, up the bay, as far as Dog River Bar, with between two and three hundred rebel prisoners on board, for exchange. When within about two-thirds of a mile of the rebel water-batteries, a fire from eight guns was opened on the flag-of-truce boat, which caused it to change quarters and fall back out of danger. The next day, as punishment for this atrocious act, two mortars and three gunboats were sent up to Dog River Bar, with orders to chastise those beings who had outraged all customs of war by firing on a white flag. When within a half-mile of the rebel water-batteries near Dog River Bar, the five vessels opened their broadsides, and poured a regular feu d'enfer into the enemy's works, dismounting two guns and causing a hurried evacuation of the lower part of the works. This thing was kept up vigorously for nearly three hours, resulting in the dismounting and disabling of eight guns, and the killing and wounding of several of the gunners. The guns were at our mercy, but owing to the low stage of water, and the small force of marines, the guns were abandoned and the boats returned to their anchorage down the bay.

This exploit will no doubt be exaggerated, in its pilgrimage North, into an assault on Mobile. No attack on the stronghold has yet taken place, and will not immediately. Preparations are continually going on, however, and reinforcements for navy and army are being hurried forward to Mobile Point and Dauphin Island.

The gunboats of the two fleets often exchange salutes, especially when either party advances too far upon what may be termed neutral ground. A few days ago one of our gunboats went up near the line of obstructions at Dog River Bar, when a couple of the seven-inch Brook's of the rebel gunboat Morgan, opened upon our craft, compelling her to retire, which, no doubt, she did in good order.

Dauphin Island and Mobile Point glisten with Federal bayonets. The last of A. J. SMITH's corps left this city this morning. This corps has been just one week from the time it started, getting off, owing to the difficulty in obtaining transportation. It will encamp for the present on Dauphin Island, while the Thirteenth Corps will remain just opposite on Mobile Point. Gen. A. J. SMITH has his headquarters on Dauphin Island and GORDON GRANGER has his at Mobile Point. The negro division is near Pensacola, under Gen. STEELE. Some of the cavalry are crossing Pontchartrain. They will go to Mobile Point. Several boatloads of cavalry from the Army of the Cumberland have arrived here during the past few days, all of which report to Gen. CANBY, who has command of all the cavalry in this department.

There can be no doubt but that Gen. HINDMAN, who, with his family and valuables, are endeavoring to escape the falling timbers of the Confederate temple, was robbed and assassinated a few miles west of the Rio Grande, on the 1st inst. This news is brought by a gentleman direct from Matamoras.

Col. PATTON, of the Twenty-second Louisiana Infantry, now at Mobile, it is stated by a deserter, was shot at in that city a few weeks ago for indulging in the luxury of making love to some other man's wife. The fellow who did the shooting was an infuriated husband. He discharged at the Lothario seven shots, but being pretty well shot (drunk) himself, the Colonel escaped injury.

Gen. W. F. ("Baldy") SMITH, who has been luxuriating at Mobile Point for the past four weeks, arrived in this city last night, and is stopping at the St. Charles.

Gen. LORENZO THOMAS and Staff, having made a visit to Forts St. Philip and Jackson, arrived here last Saturday, and are tied up at the foot of St. Joseph-street in the steamer Rocket.

Admiral THATCHER arrived here, after a flying visit up Mobile Bay, late last night.

Mrs. WARD and her two daughters, Misses EMMA and ADA, the pleasing actresses, leave for their home in New-York to-day, in the steamer Dacotah.

Miss AVONIA JONES, at the St. Charles, and Mr. LAWRENCE BARRETT, at the Varieties Theatre, are both doing a fair business.

Mlle. LINA WINDEL, who used to be a pet with the young men at Niblo's in '55 and '56, is at the Academy of Music, the bright particular star of the ballet. Several of the old Ravel organization are also here—the ZANFRETTAS, and two of the LEHMANS.

Hon. T. VAN VALKENBURGH, of New-York, and Hon. M. F. BONZANO, of this State, arrived here this morning by the Evening Star, which left New-York on the 4th inst. The Evening Star has been aground on the bar for five days.

The rebel Brig.-Gen. BARKSDALE, while skirmishing with some petticoats near Natchez, the other day, was subsequently captured by some Yankees, who put the job up. This makes up for one-half of the CROOK and KELLY capture. Pretty women are dangerous fellows. BENJAMIN C. TRUMAN.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

The Rebels Open Fire on Our Working Parties—No Injury Done—Movements of Gen. Ord's Army.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 24.

Advices received from the Army of the Potomac say that a great deal of firing has taken place lately, the rebels opening fire on some of our working parties, as well as at the Avery House signal station, and upon passing railroad trains—but so far the fire has done no injury.

Picket firing on the same portion of the line is kept up constantly at night, mainly to prevent desertions from the rebel army.

The rebels still refuse to exchange Richmond papers.

In the army on Wednesday a rumor prevailed that a fight had taken place between Gen. ORD's army and the enemy on Tuesday, but there is no foundation for it.

The troops of Gen. ORD were being drilled in breaking camp and packing up, which probably gave rise to the story.

Nineteen deserters came in last night in front of a division of the Ninth Corps, bringing their arms and equipments with them.

RIGHT WING.

Expected Visit of the President—Heavy Cannonading—Deserters' Statement—Sherman's Movements—The Weather, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RIGHT WING, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Wednesday, March 22—8 A. M.

Expectation was on tiptoe yesterday, from the circulation of a rumor that President LINCOLN was at City Point, and would visit the army. Up till noon, the excitement ran pretty high; but, as the weather became rainy during the morning, and it grew less probable that we should be gratified with a sight of the illustrious guest, those who assembled at the railroad stations for that purpose, prudently abandoned the hope, and retired to their respective quarters. It is altogether likely that the change in the weather led to a brief postponement of the visit, and our curiosity may yet be gratified to-day or to-morrow. If the President visits the army now, he cannot help but be highly pleased, for the troops were never in better condition or in more buoyant spirits.

On Monday evening and last evening, there was considerable firing on the left of the Sixth Corps and the right of the Ninth Corps front. It was commenced by the rebels, whose intention was no doubt to discover what movements had been transpiring on this side. Yesterday their sharpshooters fired upon several persons who ventured in exposed positions, but I could not hear that any one was injured by their shots.

Deserters continue to come in from the rebel lines, though not in such numbers as some weeks ago. On Monday night eight were reported as having come in on the front occupied by Gen. POTTER's division of the Ninth Corps. They were from Cook's, Battle's and Cowan's brigades, and were from the Carolinas and Georgia. They state that though intelligence from Gen. SHERMAN has been received at Gen. Lee's headquarters, it is not announced to the troops, and augur from this that its import is unfavorable to the rebel cause. They all brought their arms, and declare that their comrades were aware of their intended departure.

Several deserters who have recently come into our lines state that the secesh officers tell their men that arrangements have been made between Gens. GRANT and LEE for exchanging deserters, and that many are intimidated from coming over because of the statement. One of those who was brought to the office of Maj. SMITH, Provost-Marshal of the Second Division of the Ninth Corps, was very fearful of being sent back, in compliance with the terms of such arrangement, and would only be assured that there was no danger by a personal conference with Maj. SMITH. If such arrangement existed, he proposed to avoid the consequent danger by returning voluntarily, if permitted to do so.

The weather continues unpleasantly warm, and to-day we have had a succession of Spring showers. These do not seem likely to continue long enough to seriously affect the roads, and will probably be far more beneficial than otherwise, as they will lay the dust and retard the escape of noxious gases from the rapidly evaporating sloughs and swamps.

HENRY H. YOUNG.

Loss of a Brave Young Officer.

BALTIMORE, Friday, March 24.

The United States steamer Santiago de Cuba, Capt. O. S. GLISSON, arrived here this morning, from Fortress Monroe yesterday afternoon. During a heavy blow in the bay, she lost overboard from the starboard rigging Acting Master's Mate SILAS W. KEPTON, a young officer of great worth, who greatly distinguished himself in the assault on Fort Fisher, being one of the first to enter the fort. He received the warm commendation of Gen. TERRY for bravery.

The Election of Judge Grason—He is Disqualified.

BALTIMORE, Friday, March 24.

The Maryland Legislature, in the case of the contested judicial election in Baltimore County, has declared the election of Mr. GRASON to the office of Judge of the Eighth Circuit Court null and void, and that he is disqualified under the new Constitution, by reason of disloyalty, he having been a member of a military organization to resist the authority of the United States at the commencement of the rebellion. A new election is ordered.

The Kennebec Open.

AUGUSTA, Me., Friday, March 24.

The Kennebec River is nearly free from ice, and navigation will be resumed in a few days.

[OFFICIAL.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, March 24—9 P. M.

Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix, New-York:

The following extracts from the Richmond papers were received this evening, at 8:30, from Gen. GRANT.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, March 23.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Richmond papers are received. The following is from the Dispatch:

It is understood in official circles that no fighting has occurred in North Carolina since Sunday; and from all we can learn, it appears that SHERMAN has attempted no advance since his check on that day. Gen. HARDEE's victory on the 16th was a very important one, and, as regards the enemy, a most bloody affair. Gen. JOHNSTON telegraphs that in that battle the Confederate loss was 450, while that of the enemy was 3,300. The fight took place at Averysboro, on the Cape Fear River, half-way between Raleigh and Fayetteville.

Gen. JOHNSTON's defeat of the enemy last Sunday, the 19th inst., occurred at Bentonsville, near the Neuse River.

By these facts we are informed that SHERMAN is pushing toward Raleigh in two columns; one moving due north from Fayetteville, the other northwest from Newbern. Gen. HARDEE fought the former, and Gen. JOHNSTON the latter.

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General.

OUR SOUTHERN FILES.

We have received files of Richmond papers of Wednesday, March 22. They contain little military news of importance. It is remarkable and significant that they have very little to say of JOHNSTON's "great victory" over SHERMAN, though they give publicity to a report that JOHNSTON had gained "another victory."

THE CAROLINAS.

ANOTHER "REBEL VICTORY."

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

It was reported this forenoon that Gen. JOHNSTON had again assaulted the enemy, and gained another victory, but, after inquiry, we are satisfied there was no foundation for the report, except the probability of the event.

NO FIGHTING ON MONDAY.

From the Richmond Dispatch, March 22.

There were reports current, yesterday, that Gen. JOHNSTON had again whipped the enemy near Bentonville; no official intelligence to that effect, was, however, received during the day. The battle of Sunday seems to have been one of those sudden and brilliant coups, for which Gen. JOHNSTON is famous. It was expected that SHERMAN, having massed his whole force, would attack JOHNSTON on Monday morning, but we have reason to believe that he failed to come up to time. The fact, no doubt, is, that SHERMAN's troops are not the men they were when they started from Savannah. A toilsome march, through the marshes and sands of South Carolina, under the hot Southern sun, has taken much of the freshness, vigor and fight out of them.

COMFORTABLE PHILOSOPHY.

While SHERMAN advances northward, the sea closes behind him, and lifts up its unfettered hands on high. He leaves not even a trace of his conquering keel over the vast expanse he has crossed. The subjugation of such a territory as that of the Confederacy is simply an impossibility, if the people are true to themselves. Borne down in one place, we will rise in another, and let him discover that he has a war on his hands which will last as long as his most passionate desires for bloodshed can demand. We cannot yield life, honor, property, freedom—all that makes us men—without struggling till every hand is paralized, and every heart grows cold in death.

VIRGINIA.

FROM THE PETERSBURGH FRONT.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

The Express, of yesterday, says that just to the left of the Jerusalem Plank Road, at an early hour Saturday night, a heavy firing occurred—mostly from mortars—which, we understand, was commenced on our side. For the space of an hour or more the display of bombs, as they shot through the air, ascending and descending, was strangely brilliant and beautiful. The firing was so rapid that at times as many as six or eight of them could be seen in the air at once. The explosions of these bombs, sometimes occurring high above the horizon, and sometimes below, sounded loud and distinct in the city.

We learn that transports have been sent down the river recently, for the purpose, it is believed, of meeting SHERIDAN's troops on the York River. We shall probably hear of the arrival of some of them at City Point within the next few days. GRANT will want his cavalry on our right, when he commences operations there.

There was some activity in the enemy's lines on yesterday, and evidently some movement of troops was in progress.

Reports reached us from our immediate front that Grant's trains were busily running all Saturday night and yesterday with troops aboard, moving toward our right. Another see-saw movement, which may be intended to deceive. The weather, however, is very fine, and the roads rapidly improving, and Grant may advance. On the contrary, it is believed by many that he will not deliver battle here until Sherman is heard from at a point nearer than he is now.

We hear that the Yankee troops are rigidly drilled and inspected daily in our front. They can be distinctly seen from certain points on our lines.

Deserters state that the Yankee force holding the lines east of Petersburgh is very weak, the body of the troops having been moved away.

THE REPORTED REBEL MUTINY.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

We have no doubt that the Yankee correspondents will report to their respective journals that they heard firing within the Confederate lines below Richmond yesterday, (31st,) and that their conjecture was an insurrection or emeute among the "rebels" had taken place, etc. They may ascertain the truth before this paper reaches them; but, for general explanation, we deem it proper to state that the firing before Richmond, heard yesterday, proceeded from a review of one of the most gallant divisions of the "Army of Northern Virginia." A large number of the most respectable and handsome dames and damsels of Richmond, accompanied by their escorts, were present to witness the review, and all, we suppose, were greatly interested by the military display.

SHERIDAN'S MOVEMENTS.

From the Richmond Dispatch, March 22.

On Monday night the enemy, supposed to be KAUTZ's cavalry, drove in our pickets posted near Old Church, in the lower end of Hanover County, fifteen miles northeast of Richmond. Yesterday morning our cavalry advanced and reëstablished our picket posts. KAUTZ was sent round to this section of country to cover the retreat of SHERIDAN's raiders, who, we learn upon good authority, were too fagged and jaded by their long and wearisome excursion, to take care of themselves. Their track, from Fluvanna to the York River, is thickly strewn with the carcasses of their worn-out horses. We had apprehended that SHERIDAN would soon be at work on our lines of communication south of Richmond; but from what we learn of the condition of his command, men and beasts, some considerable time must elapse before it will again be fit for field operations.

REPORTED FIGHT AT WHITE HOUSE.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

Another report, to which we attach some credit, is that Gen. FITZ LEE's cavalry attacked and severely punished the enemy yesterday at White House.

SLAVE SOLDIERS.

NECESSITY FOR SPEEDY ACTION.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

The "law of the land" provides for the organization and equipment of negro troops; and preliminary measures have been taken in this city for the execution of the law. Whatever is to be done should be done expeditiously and well. With as little delay as possible, the official regulations for recruiting and organizing the negroes should be promulgated. A board of officers specially charged with the supervision of the organization of this service should be appointed at once. Parties who intend to organize companies, battalions or regiments are awaiting the announcement of the regulations under which they can proceed by authority to carry out their purposes. The negroes, too, are generally waiting for some better understanding of the scheme before enlisting.

To secure the success of the proposed enrollment, it will be necessary to deal plainly and fairly with the negroes from the start. The act of Congress and any State legislation bearing on the subject, should be fully explained to them, and ample assurance given of the fulfillment of any promises which may be used as an inducement for them to enlist. The nature of the service which they will be expected to perform, the relations which they will bear to the white troops, and the necessity devolving upon them of aiding in the preservation of their own race from extinction, should be expounded in the clearest manner. Let this be done, and an army of negro troops will soon be raised.

THE NEGRO RECRUITS.

From the Richmond Dispatch, March 22.

A visit to the rendezvous for colored troops, under the supervision of Majors TURNER and PEGRAM, yesterday afternoon, showed a healthy progress of the cause, and demonstrated the entire feasibility of the scheme. In the large building known as Smith's factory we found a number of colored volunteers, each of whom seemed as happy as larks, and expressed their determination to fight the Yankees. By the direction of Majors TURNER and PEGRAM, these troops have been placed under the drilling management of Lieut. VIRGINIUS BOSSIEUX, and manifest, so far, great proficiency in the art (military manual of arms.) As soon as proper equipments can be obtained, it is the purpose of the commanding officers to order a public parade of the troops on the capitol-square.

MISCELLANEOUS.

OUR REDUNDANT POPULATION.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

We were gratified at the proposition relative to the families of absconding Confederates, introduced by Mr. WALKER at the last meeting of the City Council. The Whig has long since, and repeatedly, commended this subject to the attention of the authorities. There are too many people in Richmond, and all who can or ought to remove, and refuse to do so, should be compelled, if possible, to seek another clime until the close of the war. We fully appreciate the difficulties and delicate character of the effort to remove our superabundant population, but we cannot afford to be bled to death by the profitless leeches who subsist upon the public charity. We hope that temporary sojourners, who can as easily locate elsewhere, will present an example to others of migrating at the first opportunity.

SUPERNUMERARY OFFICERS.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

Some one remarked last week that a full regiment of officers of various grades could be found any day on the streets of Richmond. There was a great deal of truth in the observation. The sidewalks are crowded with stalwart men in uniform, with bars or stars displayed upon their coat-collars. Some are officers stationed here, others are commissioned to occupy bomb-proof positions in different parts of the country, and a few are visitors, on brief leave, from the Army of Northern Virginia; but the large majority, we apprehend, are military popinjays, who take a peculiar pride in displaying the gilt lace and buttons with which their apparel is adorned—men who have escaped conscription by means not to be inquired into and have determined to keep beyond the smell of villainous saltpetre.

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE TO THE YANKEE LINES.

From the Richmond Whig, March 22.

Some little stir has been occasioned in our business circles for a few days past by the disappearance of a well-known citizen, whose position as cashier and depositary had given him some prominence in this community. Accompanied by his wife, who is of Northern birth, he left in the direction of Savannah, but was fortunately captured and returned to the city. When arrested, he was driving like Jehu for the coveted realm of LINCOLN, carrying with him eleven heavy trunks, the contents of which has not yet transpired.—Augusta Constitutionalist.

FROM THE SOUTHWEST.

The Exchange of Prisoners in the Southwest—Report from Rear Admiral Thatcher—Havoc among Blockade-Runners.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 24.

The Navy Department has received a communication from Acting Rear-Admiral THATCHER, commanding the West Gulf Blockading Squadron, enclosing a communication from Col. DWIGHT, Commissioner of Exchange of the military division of West Mississippi, in which the later states that the exchange of all Naval officers delivered to him at Red River, on the 26th of February, has been effected by the delivery of the rebel Naval officers at Mobile on the 4th inst., together with the delivery of the rebel Admiral BUCHANAN at Richmond, at about the same time.

Acting Rear Admiral LEE, commanding the Mississippi Squadron, in a communication dated March 28, says:

"On the 25th ultimo, forty-four officers and men, lately attached to vessels of the squadron, who had been held as prisoners of war, were delivered at the mouth of Red River, and on the following day, were sent to Cairo by Lieut. Commander CRAFTON, with a letter to the commanding officer of the receiving-ship, stating that they were exchanged."

There is reason to suppose, however, that the prisoners are merely paroled.

Admiral THATCHER, commanding the West Gulf Blockading Squadron, in a communication to the Navy Department, under date of March 3, reports the following captures, loss or destruction of blockade-runners in the Second Division of the West Gulf Blockading Squadron for the month of February:

On the 2d of February, United States gunboat Penola captured the schooner Ben Willis, with 176 bales of cotton; Feb. 7, boats from the United States steamers Bienville and Princess Royal cut out of Galveston harbor the schooner Pet, with 256 bales of cotton on board.

On the 10th of February, the United States gunboat Penobscot captured the steamer Matilda, with an assorted cargo.

On the 16th of February the same vessel destroyed the schooner Louisa, with an assorted cargo.

On the 18th of February, the United States gunboat Panola captured the schooner Annie Dale. She grounded under the guns of a fort, was fired into and destroyed.

On the 19th of February, the United States steamer Gertrude captured the brig Echo, with an assorted cargo.

The steamers Will o' the Wisp and Acadia were run on shore, shelled and destroyed.

The steamers Granite, Wren and Lark, grounded and were shelled while under the protection of the rebel battery, but they finally ran in.

AFFAIRS IN ALBANY.

A Bill for the Prevention of Railroad Disasters—The Health Bill Reported—Underground Railroad Bill Defeated.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Friday, March 24, 1865.

Mr. REED, of New-York, introduced a bill this morning in the Assembly, providing to prevent injury to passengers upon railroads, so far as this can be done by proper precautions. There are two very noticeable indications which go to show that legislation upon this subject is imperatively demanded. First, there is the increasing frequency of railroad disasters; second, there is a state of things existing, in regard to the condition of the roads, upon which some light is thrown in discussing railroad bills here.

The bill introduced this morning looks in the right direction. Its merits and demerits will appear upon discussion, if, at this late stage of the session, it shall be so fortunate as to receive attention. The bill provides that the Governor, by and with the consent of the Senate, may appoint three persons, to be called General Railroad Commissioners. The said Commissioners, or any two of them, may, as often as they shall deem expedient, and at their discretion, or upon complaint in writing, under oath of any person alleging any particular in which the conduct of any railroad corporation, or its agents, is inconsistent with the public safety, and shall, upon complaint made by any number not less than five, stockholders or creditors under oath assigning in good faith sufficient reason therefor, visit and inspect any railroad in this State, its rails, switches and crossings, buildings, stations, works, bridges, engines and cars, and shall investigate the condition of such railroad, and shall examine its bylaws and regulations, &c., &c.; and they shall have power to examine under oath all directors, officers, agents or other persons, and such other witnesses as they may think proper. If upon examination any railroad, or its management, or the affairs of any such corporation, a majority of the said commissioners shall be of opinion that its rails, bridges, switches, engines or cars are in such condition or that its affairs are so conducted as to endanger the safety of the public, then the commissioners may make application to one of the Justices of the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain such incorporation wholly or in part from proceeding with its business. The Justice may issue such process and may modify it at any time in his discretion.

The vote was taken in the Senate this morning on the passage of the Underground Broadway Railroad Bill. The bill was lost by a vote of fourteen to twelve.

OUR HAVANA CORRESPONDENCE.

News From Matamoras—Cortinas Still Loyal—Dismissal of the United States Consul—Typhoid Prevailing in Zacatecas—The Cession of Sonora to France Denied—Gwin's Colonization Scheme Dropped—Railroad Accident—New Steamer—The Jean Bart at Havana—Blockade-running.

HAVANA, Saturday, March 18, 1865.

Some files of the Houston Telegraph, received here by a blockade-runner, contained a mystifying account that CORTINAS had again mutined, and deserted the Imperial ranks, having put himself, it was said, at the head of 600 men in the neighborhood of Camargo, where he stopped all the vehicles that passed loaded with cotton and other merchandise. The account proves to be incorrect. The English steamer San Roman, which arrived here a few days ago from Matamoras, brings news that CORTINAS was still loyal to the Imperial Government, and in conjunction with other well-known Generals of the Imperial army was closely pursuing CARVAJAL, who, it was expected, would soon fall a prisoner into their hands.

The same paper, the Houston Telegraph, which gave the intelligence of the defection of CORTINAS from the Imperial side, stated likewise that there were arrested at Matamoras, by order of Gen. MEJIA, about fifty individuals—Mexicans and North Americans—accused of plotting in favor of CORTINAS, who was to make an immediate attack on the city, and be assisted by the above conspirators.

As the Matamoras papers brought by the San Roman, and which are as recent as the 6th inst., make no mention of any such conspiracy, it may be considered as an additional false piece of news of the Houston Telegraph.

The same paper also contained particulars of a so-called dispute between the American Consul at Matamoras and Gen. MEJIA, founded upon letters received from that city and dated the 23d of last month. According to these, the United States Consul had closed his office. He had made some complaints to Gen. MEJIA, who replied that he could not communicate with him officially. The Consul renewed his complaints, to which MEJIA replied that he acted in accordance with orders from the Emperor, and that, as far as respected foreign relations, he might close his office immediately. On the following day he received orders to leave the city within a week, and had done so.

Gen. MEJIA, it was stated, had obtained a furlough for six months, and was to leave shortly for the capital. Gen. LOPEZ, who was commanding at Piedras Negras, would succeed him.

According to the news brought by the San Roman, several Republican leaders had been apprehended and shot.

The typhoid fever was committing dreadful ravages in the State of Zacatecas; but both in that State and in that of Aquascalientes there prevailed the greatest tranquillity.

At Brownsville, an attack by the Federal troops was feared, but the Confederate Gen. SLAUGHTER was determined to preserve the place at any cost. Great preparations for defence were being made in the interior of Texas.

The report that Sonora was to be given up to the Emperor NAPOLEON is denied by those of the Mexican papers that are most intimately connected with the Imperial Government.

The Razon, a paper of the Mexican capital, published the following upon the above-mentioned subject:

"For some time past a vague report has been in circulation, which, although not published in the newspapers, has been pretty well spread from mouth to mouth, and which we believe ourselves authorized to inquire into and to deny. According to the above report, the Emperor of Mexico has ceded to the French Government a portion of the department of Sonora. On the one hand, ignorance, and on the other, the bad faith of the enemies of the Empire, have aided in spreading this piece of news, which we can affirm is entirely false, according to information that we have received from the highest sources.

The Emperor has accepted the throne of Mexico with the most determined resolve, not only to maintain its dignity and independence, but to preserve the integrity of the national territory. Neither any interest nor any consideration could modify that determination. Whoever believes such assertions does not know the intentions of the Sovereign of Mexico and calumniates. The last thing that could happen during the reign of the Prince who rules the destinies of this country is the loss of a single foot of the territory over which his illustrious dynasty has been called to reign."

The Ere Nouvelle of the 26th of last month, referring to the same subject, says:

"The reports to which the Razon refers, if they existed, were the more unfounded because the French Government has never entertained the idea of obtaining from Mexico the relinquishment of any part of its territory."

The same paper, speaking of the proposed colonization of Sonora, has the following:

"Several Mexican papers, copying what was said by an English sheet published at Mazatlan, mention a colonization project in Sonora, with Mr. GWIN, formerly United States Senator, at its head. The news might have been once true, but is not so now. Mr. GWIN having, in fact, come to Mexico with the intention of directing toward Sonora a grand current of immigration, principally furnished by the Confederate States, has entirely given up this design, and set out a month ago again for Europe."

A deplorable railroad accident happened last Sunday afternoon by which four gentlemen were killed, two of them physicians, and several wounded more or less dangerously. It has caused much sensation here from having occurred at the fashionable drive of the city, known as the Paseo de Tacon, which is crossed by the Havana and Matanzas Railroad. The train from the city while crossing came in contact with an omnibus full of passengers and occasioned the above-mentioned disaster. The engineer of the train has been arrested.

On the 10th instant there arrived at Santiago de Cuba, on its way to Vera Cruz, a new steamer of the French-Mexican line, called the Emperatrice Eugenie, which is highly spoken of for its sailing qualities as well as other advantages.

A passenger on board of the Emperatrice Eugenie states that three days before the steamer arrived at Martinico, they came up on the open sea with an American brig abandoned, having the masts broken and a part of the sides in fragments. It was not known whether it was to be attributed to a Confederate vessel or to a storm.

The Emperatrice Eugenie takes out to Mexico a Protect of Police, a Colonel, two staff officers, a Captain of Chasseurs d'Afrique, and another of Zouaves, a Paymaster and 55 passengers, civilians.

The Jean Bart, a French man-of-war, employed as a naval school for the instruction of cadets, arrived here on Wednesday from Fort de France. The Jean Bart left Goree on the 15th of December and arrived at Rio Janeiro on the 13th of January, having previously touched at Bahia. After remaining at Rio Janeiro for about a week she sailed for Cayenne, and from there to Fort de France, from which last place she came to this port. It is the intention of the Captain, M. DIEUDONNE, to remain here only a few days, and to voyage along the coast of the United States and north to Newfoundland. On board the Jean Bart there are a large number of naval cadets of the last promotion made in France.

The capture of an English blockade-running steamer, which had cleared from Matamoras for Havana, with a cargo of cotton, by a Federal cruiser, about twenty miles from Havana, had been much commented upon at Matamoras, it being expected that the English Government should interfere, when the fact is that many of the blockade-runners, although they carry the English flag, do not belong to Englishmen, but interested parties use the flag of that nation as a means of carrying on their nefarious commerce. This can be easily done, as the English law on the subject is very lax and permits vessels of any nation to sail under that flag by applying to the English Consul. The parties engaged here in blockade-running are of all nations, not even excluding americans. I do not mean only Confederates but also loyal Federals, the large profits being too great a temptation for many which they cannot resist. HELM, formerly United States Consul here, and now for some time past the Confederate agent, is said to have made large sums, as have also others whose names I could particularize.

The capture of another blockade-runner, which had left Havana, a short time ago, to run the blockade, by another Federal vessel, has also been commented upon by the newspapers of this place. They are congratulating themselves, however, that the prize has been given up by order of the United States court.

The United States sloop Alarm, Capt. BAKER, entered yesterday from New-York in 12 days.

LARA.

A WOULD BE DESERTER SHOT.—Wednesday afternoon, while a squad of recruits in charge of J. G. CARTWRIGHT were waiting on Pier No. 41, North River, for the boat to convey them to Hart's Island, JAMES HEALEY, one of their number, attempted to escape by breaking from the ranks. One of the guards fired at him and shot him in the leg. He was taken to the New-York Hospital by Officer MARTIN of the Twenty-sixth Precinct.

FRIDAY, March 24—P. M.

The Gold Room opened this morning at 150½ per cent, advanced to 151½, then suddenly fell back and touched, at one moment, 147½ per cent., all before 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The subsequent turn of the sales was upward to 153½ per cent. The fresh decline in the morning, in the absence of later military news, was ascribed in part to the failure last evening of one of the heaviest of the pro-Southern Gold firms in the Room, involving the abrupt settlement of a very large amount of contracts, and the precipitate sale of a large amount of Gold which they had lent out and had to receive back on one day's notice. The concern was organized under the excitement of last Summer's Gold speculation, from the Southwest and Montreal, and has been operating since in the interest and with the support of secesh refugees and sympathizers in Canada, Kentucky, New-York, &c. They were reported to have made large profits on the rise in Gold for themselves and their friends, which, on the present turn in the opposite direction, have probably not been all reimbursed to the Street, so far at least as the distant correspondents of the house are concerned.

The settlements growing out of this heavy failure are said to have included, to-day, some considerable parcels of Railway and other Shares, which contributed to the depression of the market from yesterday's sacrifices, but the feeling was nevertheless, steadier at the early Board, and rapidly recovered at the Second Board. The rally was so very decided as to verify the belief that the worst of the panic has been seen, and this sense of recovery, it is satisfactory to know, is qualified by no heavy failures on the regular Stock Exchange. At 4 o'clock this afternoon, the following prices were made as compared with the same hour yesterday. The intermediate sales were, in some instances, lower than the depression of yesterday, bnt the general market shows a large improvement on the Railways and a steady feeling in Government Stocks. Gold 152½ ₱ cent.

The market for Money was easier to the Brokers, to-day, at 7 ₱ cent. on approved collateral, though complaint was made by some of the borrowers, of the extreme scarcity of their securities of a miscellaneous nature. On the other hand, particular lenders prefer to accept 6 ₱ cent. on Government Stocks exclusively.

In the Dry Goods trade there is increased confidence that the failures, which so seriously predicted at the outset of the panic, will not and cannot occur in the cash nature of a large portion of the business for several years past, and its resulting profits up to the turn of Gold below 200 ₱ cent. That there will be a heavy shrinkage of these profits from the depreciation of the stocks of goods on hand, there is no question, but this mischief is slight compared with absolute failure to meet outstanding liabilities. We hear, to-day, of the stoppage of payment by a domestic commission house down town.

The subscriptions to the 7-30 Popular Loan at the First National Bank, to-day, amount to $250,000; and with Messrs. LIVERMORE, CLEWES & Co., $125,000.

The Gold rates of Exchange on London, for Saturday's steamer, are 109@109½ ₱ cent. A fair business done. The advices by the Australasian to March 11, are to the effect of a continued improvement in the United States 5-20's, and further orders have come out to buy them for both England and the Continent, but in many instances at limits which cannot be made under the heavy decline in the Currency value of Exchange. Other orders are sent without reference to the state of Exchange.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Gen. GRANT sends a little war news from Richmond papers of the 23d. They say there has been no fighting in North Carolina since Sunday, thereby intimating that SHERMAN had been effectually checked on that day. They cannot learn that he had attempted any advance since. HARDEE'S victory on the 16th is considered very important by the rebel papers, an opinion that might possibly be of some weight had they not overdone it by representing the fight as most bloody, resulting in a loss of 3,300 Unionists to 450 Confederates—a difference rather too strong for ordinary credulity. The fight is said to have taken place at Averysboro, a small village on Cape Fear River about midway between Fayetteville and Raleigh, and ten miles west of Bentonville, where another rebel victory (on the 19th,) is said to have been won. The dispatch before us says that SHERMAN is moving in two lines toward Raleigh, and these battles were with the respective columns.

We learn from the Army of the Potomac that there has been considerable firing lately, the rebels opening upon some of our working parties at one of the signal stations, and upon our railroad trains. No damage had been done. The rebels keep up lively picket firing, to prevent desertions from their own ranks. On Wednesday night nineteen deserters came in front of one division of the Ninth Corps. On Wednesday a rumor prevailed that a fight had taken place between Gen. ORD's army and the enemy on Tuesday, but there is no foundation for it.

Recent naval captures are as follows: Feb. 2, schooner Ben Willis, with 176 bales cotton, by the gunboat Panola; Feb. 7, schooner Pet, 256 bales cotton, by boats from steamers Bienville and Princess Royal; Feb. 10, steamer Matilda, assorted cargo, by the gunboat Penobscot; Feb. 16, schooner Louise, destroyed by the Penobscot; Feb. 18, schooner Annie Dale destroyed by gunboat Panola, under the guns of a fort; Feb. 19, steamer Gertrude takes brig Echo with assorted cargo. Several small rebel steamers have recently been run ashore and destroyed.

A letter from Nashville, March 17, says that the great Cavalry expedition under Gen. WILSON, was started Southward. Fifteen thousand cavalry and mounted infantry comprise the force, ten thousand of whom are dashing through Alabama, destroying roads, &c. They will cooperate with Gen. CANBY in the grand attack on Mobile, and will probably be first heard from in the neighborhood of that city.

Col. DWIGHT, Commissioner of Exchange of the Military Division of West Mississippi, states that the exchange of all naval officers delivered to him at Red River, on the 26th of February, has been effected by the delivery of the rebel naval officers at Mobile on the 4th inst., together with the delivery of the rebel Admiral BUCHANAN at Richmond.

The New-Orleans Times of the 13th says: "We are informed that there is no truth in the report of an attack upon Mobile. The few shots exchanged between the iron-clads and some of the lower batteries was simply a reconnoissance to develop the strength of certain fortifications."

We have a rumor from Cairo that Mobile had been evacuated and was in possession of our troops, but the story is probably premature.

On the 25th ult., forty-four officers and men, lately attached to vessels in the squadron, who had been held as prisoners of war, were delivered at the mouth of Red River, and on the following day were sent to Cairo.

It is stated that Major-Gen. ROBERT ANDERSON has been directed by the President to raise the stars and stripes on the battlements of Fort Sumter on the 13th of April, 1865, the fourth anniversary of the day he consented to evacuate the place.

The Fourth Army Corps, under command of Gen. STANLEY, is moving through Tennessee toward Knoxville to participate in the campaign in Western Virginia. Gens. STONEMAN and GILLEM, with 6,000 cavalry, were already heading that way.

Brig.-Gen. ALONZO ALDEN, so severely wounded at the Fort Fisher explosion, reached Troy on Thursday, convalescent and cheerful.

By a recent General Order the court-houses and jails in several counties in this part of Tennessee have been turned over to the Sheriffs for the use of the civil authorities, and a few citizen prisoners of a class hitherto tried by military courts have already been handed over for trial in the usual way by the civil courts. Civil law will be restored in other counties as fast as circumstances and the state of the country will permit.

A large meeting was held in Philadelphia, on Thursday night, in behalf of the refugees and deserters from the rebel army. Judge STRONG, of the Supreme Court, presided. Rev. JOSEPH T. DURYEA, Rev. Dr. NEWTON, GEORGE H. STUART and others addressed the meeting. Resolutions were passed to the effect that all deserters from the rebel army would be helped to employment on their arrival there, and otherwise cared for.

Town and city elections have lately been held in Muscatine, McGregor, Cedar Rapids, Washington, Mount Pleasant, Council Bluffs, and many other towns, all of which have resulted favorably to the cause of good government. Last year we carried Cedar Rapids for the first time. This year the Union ticket was elected without opposition.

Kingston, Canada, was alarmed, a few nights ago, by a report that twenty-five American deserters had crossed over and entered the city. In a short time the story grew so as to report sixty-two men fully armed. There was great consternation among the Canadians, but it was only a scare.

The steamboat Munroe, a little boat that has been lying off Grand Gulf, went up Big Black River on the 9th and was captured. One of her owners, WM. MILLIGAN, and WILEY, carpenter, were killed by the rebels. Dr. BROWN, also one of the owners, is supposed to be killed.

The Government of Nova Scotia, abandoning the hope of an early union of the provinces, will submit the scheme for a federation to the maritime provinces only, and proceed with certain public works left in abeyance while the larger scheme was pending.

A very brilliant comet was observed in the southwest, from on board the ship White Swallow of Boston, (when probably off Cape of Good Hope,) from Jan. 20 to Feb. 5. As the comet must then have had a high northern declination, it was, of course, invisible to us.

The tannery of JUDSON SCHULTZ, of Homowack, N. Y., was destroyed by fire last Wednesday night. The fire consumed the entire building with its contents. The value of the property destroyed will exceed $20,000, mainly covered by insurance.

The St. Louis heiress, Miss KITTERER, who a short time since was spirited away from St. Louis, has been found in Chicago. Her guardian wished her to take the veil in the Ursuline Convent, but she refuses, as she inherits $50,000.

The monument to be erected in Merrimack-square, Lowell, to the memory of LADD and WHITNEY, the Baltimore martyrs, is nearly completed, and will be dedicated April 19, the anniversary of the massacre, with appropriate exercises.

A cavalry soldier named CUMMINGS shot a fellow at Bladensburgh, Md., the other day, for hurrahing for JEFF. DAVIS, and then quietly mounted his horse, rode two miles to a fort, and gave himself up for trial.

The Philadelphia North American, states that ill health has compelled the resignation of the Presidency of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company by Mr. S. M. FELTON, who has filled the post with so much success.

Mr. CLARK MILLS publishes a card in the Washington Star, emphatically repudiating the letter which has been running the rounds of the papers over his signature, addressed to the Governor of South Carolina. He says it is a forgery.

Gen. MCCLELLAN is at present in Rome. "The General," says the Roman correspondent of the Times, "has certainly no expectation of a speedy termination of the war which is now devastating his unhappy country."

Col. ALANSON KNOX, formerly one of the most prominent citizens in Hampden, Mass., died recently, at the age of 81 years, at Chagrin Falls, Ohio, where he had been practicing law for many years.

On Sunday, while Mrs. Breen, of Waterbury, Conn., was getting ready to go to church, her dress took fire, and she was so badly burned that she died shortly afterward.

Mrs. J. D. WOOD, the actress, who was lately badly burned at the Buffalo theatre, while trying to save a little girl from destruction, died last Saturday.

CHAS. A. BURY, the well-known and wealthy brewer at Albany, was instantly killed, on Tuesday, by the accidental falling of a stone from the top of his brewery.

JOHN OVERTON, the Tennessee millionare, who gave $5,000,000 to aid the rebellion, has deserted the cause, taken the oath, and is once more a peaceable citizen of Nashville.

The Philadelphia coal-dealers are delivering coal to consumers in square iron boxes holding seventy-five pounds, which are emptied into the cellars without dirt or confusion.

A gentleman of Lewiston, Me., has left by will $15,000 to be set apart under certain conditions for the establishment of a Professorship of Sacred Literature in Bates College in that town.

SILAS W. KEPTON, a brave young officer, one of the first of our men to get into Fort Fisher, was lost overboard a few days ago from the Santiago de Cuba.

Mr. GOUGH has been obliged to suspend his lectures for a time, in consequence of the failure of his voice.

The new hotel in Boston is to be called the Samerset House, and will be situated on the northerly slope of Beacon Hill.

LOCAL NEWS.

At the last session of the Board of Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, Officer McGERAHTY, of the Second Precinct, was discharged, and complaints were heard against patrolman JAMES T. HANNEGAN, of the Twenty-first Precinct; EDWARD THORNTON, of the Seventeenth; GUNSON, of the Fifth; THOMAS RYAN, of the Eighteenth; MCKNIGHT, of the Second, and Sergt. HAGGERTY, of the Forty-third.

Mr. N. HILL FOWLER, Corporation Attorney, has been removed from office by the Counsel to the Corporation, and Mr. GEORGE SHEA appointed in his place. The cause of Mr. FOWLER'S removal was his refusal to give testimony before the Senate Investigating Committee, in opposition to the expressed wish of the Counsel to the Corporation.

The progress of recruiting in the city yesterday was very slow, in consequence of want of funds, the continued holding off of candidates, who think they can get more as substitutes than by bounty, and want of earnest effort by our citizens. The whole number of recruits in the city Thursday was 121, and yesterday much less.

Collector DRAPER is expected home from Savannah immediately. He was to sail from Hilton Head on Tuesday last.

The Tax Levy, as adopted by the Common Council, has been approved by the Mayor.

In produce and merchandise, business was on a limited scale yesterday, at rapidly declining prices. Flour fell off 15c.@25c. ℔ bbl. Wheat 3c.@5c. ℔ bushel. Cotton 3c.@5c. ℔ lb. New Mess Pork $1 37½@$2 50 ℔ bbl. Lard ¼c. ℔ lb. Petroleum 1c.@2c. ℔ gallon. Oats advanced 2c ℔ bushel. Whisky was very dull. Groceries were quite heavy. The auction sales of dry goods passed off quite spiritlessly, prices generally ruling very low. The freight market was inactive.

The Gold market, after receding to 147¼ yesterday, rallied to 153¼ ℔ cent. The later sales will be found reported from the Evening Exchange. Stocks improved after the early Board, and there was generally a more cheerful feeling on the Street. Money easy at 7 ℔ cent.

THE ENGAGEMENT AT BENTONSVILLE, N. C.—We look in vain in the Richmond papers of Wednesday, or in the telegraphic abstract of Thursday's papers forwarded by Gen. GRANT, for additional light on the scope and results of the engagement of Sunday last, at Bentonsville. The report of deserters, received by way of City Point, although given with some minuteness, we hesitate to regard as trustworthy. These reports represent SHERMAN as having rallied his troops after Sunday's battle and driven the rebels five miles. This story would be more credible if we could come to the conclusion that SHERMAN'S army needed rallying after that battle. Certainly, the engagement at the close of Sunday evening, which, even by the rebel accounts, could hardly have lasted an hour and a half, did not leave even the portion of our troops actually engaged, in a condition to need rallying. Much less could that skirmish have affected the spirit or the nerve of SHERMAN'S main force.

The Richmond papers of Wednesday, it will be seen by our extracts, are suspiciously reticent. DAVIS' organ, the Sentinel, has not a word additional to sustain LEE'S report of the previous day. The Dispatch and Whig content themselves with rumors of a renewed assault by JOHNSTON; but both journals admit that there is no additional news of an official or authentic character to supplement the previous story of the Bentonsville fight. The Dispatch of Thursday is scarcely less reticent.

We may fairly conclude, then, from this, that the order of the day with JOHNSTON—in North Carolina as in Georgia—is retreat. By what line of advance SHERMAN has forced the rebels to take the backward march, we should be better able to determine if we knew which of his columns was attacked on Sunday: or whether, indeed, it was not a portion of SCHOFIELD'S army that took part in the engagement at Bentonsville.

Lieut.-Gen. Grant

It is not generally known, because it was not desirable until now that it should be known, that Gen. GRANT, as soon as it became necessary to prepare SHERMAN for his march through Carolina, stripped himself of a very large portion of his own troops, in order both to reinforce him and to strengthen the columns at Charleston, Wilmington, Newbern and elsewhere, which were to operate in combination with him, so that the lines at Petersburgh and on the James were occupied for the time by barely enough men to hold them. This, we admit, is a circumstance which now possesses no great military or political importance, but it deserves the attention of the public, as illustrating in a very marked manner the character of the man to whose hands it has been the rare good fortune of the nation to have had the management of its armies confided during the past year. We venture to repeat that there have been few instances in the history of war—we can ourselves only think of one—of such discrimination and perspicuity in the choice of subordinates as Gen. GRANT has displayed. He was no sooner placed in the chief command than he brought to the front and placed in high command, in the persons of such men as SHERMAN, SHERIDAN, THOMAS, MCPHERSON, an array of talent such as has been seldom seen in any army; and they have not been in any sense his creatures, the blind, devoted followers of his own fortunes, loving him better than the cause or the country, and ready to ruin either the one or the other to advance his private interests or their own. The public has been spared, under his administration, the pain of seeing the staff, field and corps and divisions led by henchmen of the General-in-Chief, converting the war into a Presidential campaign, and fighting without more thought of principle than highland gillies. Every man whom he has been instrumental in placing in a prominent position, has proved himself not simply an able, but a devoted, self-sacrificing, silent servant of the nation, obeying orders faithfully, holding his tongue diligently, and doing his duty without reference to the effect which his action was likely to have, either on his own interest or those of the people.

All this was sufficiently remarkable and gratifying. But what has been far more remarkable and gratifying is the fact that GRANT himself was content, throughout the last and glorious year, to reserve to himself that portion of the work which promised hardest fighting with least results, leaving it to others to play the striking and conspicuous parts, in which glory was more easily won, and the popular eye more readily dazzled. During the last nine months he has devoted himself to the task simply of keeping his enemy—the strongest, best disciplined and best led in the Confederacy—tied up at Richmond; a task, as events are now proving, of transcendant importance, but one which the popular mind was not likely to appreciate, while SHERMAN, SHERIDAN, THOMAS and TERRY were performing exploits which kept the bells ringing and banners waving, from week to week, in every town in the North; and how well the task has been performed, and how essential it has been to the last campaign, people are now, at last, beginning to see. It is at last plain that it is the presence of that iron grasp on his throat that has enabled every one of the more popular heroes to conquer. If LEE could only have shaken GRANT off, we should hardly have witnessed SHERIDAN'S glorious days in the Valley, SHERMAN'S triumphant marches in Georgia and South Carolina, or TERRY'S moonlit victory at Fort Fisher. And we have no hesitation in saying, that whenever the seal of that noble silence with which GRANT covers other men's defects, and his own virtues, is broken, the world will be astonished to find how much of the great salvation which has been vouchsafed to us during the past year, has been due to his foresight and sagacity, to the invaluable counsels which he has given to his subordinates, to the supervision which he has exercised over their operations, and to what is a much rarer quality than any of these, the wise and unwavering confidence which he has placed in their discretion.

The moral qualities which Gen. GRANT has displayed, great as has been the display of intellectual vigor with which he has illustrated the annals of war, something far finer, in our opinion, and of which his countrymen may be more justly proud, for they are qualities rare amongst public men in this age, and especially rare in democratic societies. In most modern communities the thirst for distinction is so intense, that it is becoming more and more difficult every year to find men who are willing to do the obscure work of life with diligence and earnestness, and leave their reputation to take care of itself. The photographer, the "special artist," the "special correspondent," and the "popular historian," must too generally, now-a-days, be perched on the benches, before either courtier, scholar or soldier can be got to enter the arena, or strive for the prize. It is surely something to have one man, and that man filling, if not the highest, perhaps, at this moment, the most important position in the republic, for whom the manner in which he does his duty, and not the amount of attention it attracts, is the great concern, and who can sit down, open the record of other men's exploits, even though in the popular eye they seem to dim the lustre of his own, with a hearty enthusiasm which can only spring from the depths of a pure and honest heart. We, too, can surely boast, amidst all the petty shortcomings of our time, the possession of many such "patient, resolute and faithful soldiers," as the historian of the Romans under the Empire ascribes to the epoch of the CÆSARS, "men deeply impressed with the sense of duty, superior to vanity, despisers of boasting, content to toil in obscurity, and shed their blood at the frontiers of the Empire, unrepining at the cold mistrust of their masters, not clamorous for the honors so sparingly awarded them, but satisfied with the daily work of their hands, and full of faith in the national destiny which they were accomplishing."

NEGRO-ARMING AT RICHMOND—SLOW WORK.—The rebel papers, from which we quoted in our yesterday's issue, made emphatic mention of the progress of negro recruiting in Richmond. And the Whig of that city gave new prominence to the fact, that the first company of Virginia negro troops would parade for drill on Wednesday last. It is something, doubtless, to the rebel organs to be able to boast of even one negro company having taken up arms for the enslavement of their kindred. But it takes some of the gilt off this gingerbread, to read, as we do, in the same sheet, that these colored recruits were all taken from the military hospitals, and were mustered into the Confederate army by the Medical Superintendent, who, of course, had the power to make his wishes law—law which the boldest of these sable janisaries would hardly venture to dispute.

How recruiting goes on among the negroes outside of the hospitals may, in part, be gathered from the tone of the comments of the Richmond papers, which we publish elsewhere to-day. The ardent journalist, forgetting, probably, how small a portion of the negro population can afford to buy his paper at one hundred dollars a year, and how much smaller a portion, peradventure, could read it if they were able to buy it, urges more activity and more patriotism upon the colored element. He is fain, however, to find some excuse for their comparative supineness. "They are waiting," says the editor of the Whig, in a candid moment, "for a better understanding of the scheme before enlisting." Just so. That, we daresay, is the English of it. "The slaves don't exactly see it."

COLLAPSE OF THE CANADA FEDERATION SCHEME.—By the telegraphic report from Canada it will be seen that the Federation scheme, which was projected under such hopeful auspices nine months ago, has prematurely collapsed. The Government of Nova Scotia has formally, and in definite terms, announced its withdrawal from the compact. And, instead of uniting with Canada, the three maritime Provinces of New-Brunswick, Prince Edward's Island and Nova Scotia, are to form a separate legislative union of their own.

This disposition of a political enterprise which promised so much for the colonies—which had only encountered good wishes on the part alike of the people and the Government of the United States, and which was strongly favored by the parent State—has naturally awakened a strong reactionary feeling in the wealthy agricultural Province of Western Canada. The people of that district find that, in addition to paying two-thirds of the revenue of the United Province of Canada, as they do now, they are expected to bear the expense of erecting fortifications at half a dozen different points, without any help either from the sister colonies or from the mother country. It is natural, therefore, that they should begin to count the cost of maintaining their connection with England. The ablest of their journals, indeed, bluntly asserts that, with the present financial prospect before them, it would pay the people of Upper Canada better to become a State of the American Union. The revolution in public feeling is to table to a degree.

THE REDUNDANT POPULATION OF RICHMOND.—Among the Richmond news, which we publish this morning, is the report of a project, under consideration in the Common Council of the city, for ridding it of its redundant population. It seems, from the statement of the Richmond Whig, that there are many non-combatants in the city, in the shape of women and children, and that they are merely consumers in the military estimate of values. The organ of the chivalry, indeed, puts it impressively, that they are "pitiless leeches," but at the same time commends "the delicate character of the effort for their removal." We presume that it is unnecessary to call in question the right of the Richmond Common Council to turn the whole non-combatant population out of doors, if it chooses. But those among us who have been worshipers of Southern—and especially of Virginia—chivalry for the best part of their lives, will be apt to feel somewhat perplexed over this crusade against a class, whose helplessness, in the crisis of war, even the savage seldom fails to respect. It is no business of ours; but we think Virginia chivalry is likely to come out of this rebellion considerably the worse to look at. Its airy plumage barely seems to bide the blast of war.

Amusements.

Our readers have undoubtedly noticed that Mr. GOTTSCHALK, our truly national pianist, contemplates visiting California, and subsequently the Sandwich Islands, Australia, India, &c. In artistic association with Mr. MUZIO, Miss LUCY SIMONS and others, there can hardly be a doubt about the success of the enterprise. We are, nevertheless, sorry to lose Mr. GOTTSCHALK, and in fact receive but little satisfaction from the four hurried performances which he gives us next week—commencing at Niblo's Saloon, on Monday. He should have afforded us at least a farewell series of artistic significance. It seems to us, too, that some recognition of his standing should be made by the public. Mr. GOTTSCHALK has worked long and conscientiously amongst his many friends, it will be a matter of no trouble to get up a grand complimentary testimonial concert. Every one will be glad to assist on the occasion, and Mr. GOTTSCHALK will be sent on his way rejoicing. There is yet time to move in the matter.

WINTER GARDEN.—Mr. STUART produces to-night, for the first time, a new military piece of the spectacle kind called "Cartouche." The work has been long in preparation, and the entire resources of the establishment have been brought into play to render it brilliant and effective.

THE HIPPOTHEATRON—MATINEE TO-DAY.—In consequence of the crowded state of the Hippotheatronic Saturday matinees for several weeks past, and the numbers who have been disappointed in obtaining admission, we advise those desiring to be present to day, not to delay their attendance beyond 1 P. M. The Chinese Festival, the equestrian and gymnastic performances of the company, and the pantomime of "Mother Goose," will provide the entertainments.

OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

Death of the Duke de Morny—Sketch of his Life—Dr. Gwin's Project—The Mexican Question.

PARIS, Friday, March 10, 1865.

The death of the Duke DE MORNY, which occurred this morning, at 8 o'clock, from acute bronchitis, will leave a sad vacuum in the entourage of the Emperor. When a man has long and successfully filled a certain important place, we are apt to say at his death, with entire conviction that his loss is irreparable, for that no other man can be found to do so well what he has done. Fortunately for the march of human events, this provision is rarely realized. But it will not be so with the illustrious deceased of this day. Aside from his remarkable qualities as a man, he was placed by his birth in such relations to the Emperor as forced him into a devoted support of the dynasty without permitting him ever to become a rival. The deceased duke, as you know, was the son of HORTENSE BEAUHARNAIS, born three years later than LOUIS NAPOLEON, and at a time when HORTENSE was living at Paris separated from her husband, the King LOUIS BONAPARTE, of Holland. Thus, while without a drop of Bonaparte blood in his veins, he is yet the half brother of the Emperor; but this illegitimacy it is which prevented him from ever becoming a rival to the Emperor. After the Emperor, the Duke occupied the largest place in the minds of the present generation of France, and as this large place in the attention of the public was founded upon real merit and real performances his loss will be correspondingly felt. As the Emperor is dull, heavy, and unattractive in person, the Duke was elegant, alert and gentlemanly. He was even handsome; his whole person and everything he did and said breathed distinction. He was the most perfect type of a gentleman in person, in word and in action at the French court. His government of the noisy Legislative Corps was a model of good sense, good taste and tact. His speeches were rare for their clearness of style, their elegance of diction, and their appropriateness. Whenever M. DE MORNY descended from the President's chair to make a speech every man listened with the expectation of being convinced. Gentlemanly and conciliating to the enemies of his brother—for he had no enemies of his own—chivalric and gallant to the ladies, accessible and charitable to the poor, he united in one man all the qualities of the grand seigneur.

With the exception of an occasional attack of neuralgia, M. DE MORNY was considered a very healthy man. A month ago his father, the elegant Count DE FLAHAULT, Chancellor of the Legion of Honor, was dangerously ill, and M. DE MORNY, in his watchings over his father, caught the cold which brought on his fatal throat disease. His father, who is now recovered, is in a state of distress which may be well imagined. The Duke married at St. Petersburg in 1856 the young Princess TROUBETSKOI, by whom he has had four children, two sons and two daughters. He leaves a fortune of thirty or forty millions of francs, gained principally in railroad enterprises in the early part of the reign of his brother.

M. DE MORNY'S unexpected death will singularly derange a considerable number of industrial organizations of which he was a money and an advisory member. But perhaps some of these will be so much deranged as the Sonora mining scheme of our former fellow-citizen, Dr. GWIN. In the present condition of the scheme, he was the only important defender of it who had the ear of the Emperor, for the Prince NAPOLEON and all the Cabinet Ministers are opposed to the appropriation of any more money for Mexico, which means an opposition to a longer occupation by the French army. Now it so happens that the mines of Sonora cannot be worked unless French troops are left to protect the colony of workmen, and without this precaution, Dr. GWIN feels that the enterprise would be too hazardous. It is in fact to secure the Emperor's consent to a longer stay of the French troops in Mexico, or at least in Sonora, that Dr. GWIN has returned to France. The Duke DE MORNY, as Dr. GWIN'S partner, would probably have urged the Emperor to prolong the occupation, and as the Emperor feels that it would neither be fair nor gallant to get MAXIMILIAN into such a scrape and then go off and leave him, he, too, probably would have inclined toward a prolongation of the occupation. But these two, powerful as they are, would have been opposed by the Cabinet as a unit, and as the best arguments are on the side of the latter, they would probably have carried the point. The discussion on the address in the Corps Legislatif will inform us whose policy has prevailed.

This Mexican question, in its bearings on the relations between France and the United States, is the great question of the moment, and almost the only one talked of on 'Change. When the news of the fall of Charleston arrived last Saturday, there was a regular panic at the Bourse, and the funds fell. So certain are most people that the end of our war will bring complications in regard to Mexico, that every one, whether friendly to the North or to the South, now speak of the successes to the Union arms as "bad news"—"bad," because it indicates a war with France and throws down the funds.

M. DROUYN DE LHUYS is no doubt felicitating himself that he has at last "come it over" Mr. SEWARD, for in the appointment of the Marquis DE MONTHOLON to Washington, he sends there, as well a Minister from MAXIMILIAN as from NAPOLEON. For, as M. DE MONTHOLON is devoted to the interests of his master, NAPOLEON, so also he must be devoted to the success of his master's pet schemes, and thus the new Mexican empire will be represented, after all, by a friend and protector at Washington.

The fall of Charleston has wrought a change in the tone of the press as to the prospects of the rebellion, and some of them admit that they have lost all hope of the success of the Confederacy. Others, however, seem disposed to hold out, and the Journal des Débats takes them to task in the following words:

"The European Secessionist journals now hasten to inform us that the Federal troops, masters of Charleston, will also soon occupy, without probably firing a shot, Wilmington and Richmond. Gens. LEE and BEAUREGARD, according to these journals, have conceived a plan of campaign which will require for its execution the preliminary evacuation of all the cities of the South; so that what we took yesterday, by mistake, for a grand victory for the North, is nothing but a cunning manœuvre of the tactitians of the South. We admit the proposition. It suffices us to remark that the armies of the North are dispensed from having recourse to any such profound strategy; they have never evacuated what they have once taken. LEE and BEAUREGARD may concentrate their troops in the open field; they may thus prolong the military resistance of the South, just as the Vandean chiefs in France prolonged that in the West a long time after the Vandee no longer had a political existence. When the Federal flag floats in the large cities, when the Congress of Washington shall have opened to commerce the ports of the Atlantic and the Gulf; when it shall have called together conventions in all the secession States to vote a pure and simple return to the Union, or in default of conventions shall have put in each county a Marshal charged to administer the laws of the United States; when the Confederate Republic is contained entirely in the camps of LEE and BEAUREGARD, the cause of the rebels will be dead. The Northern troops will not need to go in search of LEE and BEAUREGARD and to run the risk of a defeat in a great battle. To finish with the last army of the South they need only to stand still and allow time, misery, and more than all the rest, those two inevitable agents of dissolution which generally accomplish the ruin of defeated parties, the spirit of discord and treason, to do the work."

The Rebels in Force at Alexandria—Excitement at Matamoras Subsiding—Severe Storm and Shipwrecks—Union Papers Prohibited in Texas.

CAIRO, Friday, March 24.

New-Orleans dates to the 19th have been received.

The rebels were in large force at Alexandria, and were strengthening Fort De Russy and the rivers.

A Matamoras correspondent of the 11th says: The excitement from the revolution is subsiding. The reported marching of disaffected chiefs on Matamoras is false.

A severe "norther" drove nearly all the vessels from the mouth of the Rio Grande, on the 8th, and but few have yet returned. The Prince of Wales, an iron vessel, was blown out of the water, but she may be saved. Another steamer, from New-Orleans, was beached five miles below Bagdad. Her hull was a total loss. Her machinery may be recovered. Other vessels (names unknown) are known to have gone to pieces.

The rebel Gen. SLAUGHTER has prohibited the circulation of our newspapers in Texas.

Six hundred and ninety bales of cotton have passed for St. Louis.

Middling cotton was quoted in Memphis at 30 cents.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 24.

NEWS FROM SHERMAN.

Lieut. MORGAN, Twenty-first Wisconsin Infantry, who escaped from rebel confinement while being transferred from Columbia and Charlotte, and accompanied SHERMAN'S army to Fayetteville, arrived in this city yesterday, having left Fayetteville on the 16th, at which time the rear of SHERMAN'S army were crossing the Cape Fear river and moving north. A skirmish occurred on the 16th between the Second Division of the Fourteenth Corps and a small body of rebels. This was all the fighting reported. The facts made it improbable that any portion of SHERMAN'S force should have reached Goldsboro as early as the 19th, though the place may now be in possession of the Union troops. It is more likely to have been first occupied by Gen. SCHOFIELD than by Gen. SHERMAN.

WAR RUMORS.

No later intelligence of importance from any of the armies has been received in the city to day. The usual files of Southern papers also failed to arrive, and this gave rise to street rumors of a startling character—evacuation of Richmond, further disaster to SHERMAN, &c.; but the foregoing facts are all the foundation they have.

REPORTED ESCAPE OF REBEL PRISONERS.

A rumor has been current that a large number of prisoners captured by the Third Cavalry Division at Waynesboro, escaped before reaching Winchester. There is no truth in it—the fact being that Col. THOMPSON brought in about 50 more prisoners than he receipted for. A few escaped during long march, but enough more rebel soldiers were captured to make up the increased number wanted. Indeed, a minority of the prisoners would not have escaped had an opportunity been given for them to do so. On the contrary, when ROSSER made an attack upon command at Fort Jackson, a rebel sergeant and several men took carbines and helped to resist the attack. At Winchester more than half of the prisoners expressed a desire to take the oath of allegiance.

MIDDLE DEPARTMENT.

Major-General COOKE having been exchanged, has resumed his command. Gen. SHERIDAN being absent, Gen. COOK assumes temporary command of the Middle Department. Gen. KELLY, who was captured with Gen. COOK, has not yet been exchanged. Gen. STEVENSON continues in the command formerly held by Gen. KELLY.

RICHMOND.

The most substantial evidence of the design of the rebels to evacuate Richmond is found in the fact that on the late Sheridan raid, the files of the Richmond Whig and all of the surplus material of that office was captured at Scottsville, on the James River, where it had been thrown off with other freight to lighten a canal-boat.

MOVEMENTS OF GEN. BUTLER.

Gen. BUTLER and wife arrived here to-day, though rumor may impart to this visit official significance, rest assured it has nothing of that character. The General is there at his own pleasure, and will remain a week or ten days. The Government has not ordered him hither.

THE PRESIDENT'S EXCURSION.

Persons here who are nervously anxious that the Government should debase itself in order to secure assent of a few leading rebels to terms of peace, are endeavoring to come at the President's visit to City Point with some new plan or conference for ending the war by negotiating it is hardly necessary to assure the public that there is not the slightest foundation for such reports.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD.

Both Houses of Maryland Legislature have passed an act authorizing the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to build a track running parallel with the Potomac and connecting with the main line at Point of Rocks. This will greatly facilitate travel from the Westar States.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 24.

REFUGEES FROM FAYETTEVILLE.

Sixty refugees, who were allowed to come through from Fayetteville, by permission of Gen. SHERMAN, have arrived here. This party consists of armorers from the Fayetteville Arsenal and their families, all of whom are in a destitute condition. The men were formerly employed at Harper's Ferry, and had moved to Fayetteville in 1861, when the machinery of the Harper's Ferry Arsenal was taken to that place by the rebels. They report that Gen. SHERMAN'S army is greatly incumbered with refugees, there being some six hundred with him now, who followed him through from Columbia.

LARGE ARRIVAL OF REBEL DESERTERS.

The largest squad of rebel deserters that have yet reached here at any one time, arrived yesterday evening from City Point. This squad numbered two hundred and fifteen, including one officer, Lieut. J. J. PILLMAN, of the Fiftieth Georgia Regiment. They all came within the lines of the Army of the James, many bringing their muskets, for which they received a liberal price in money.

GUERRILLAS NEAR CULPEPPER COURT-HOUSE.

There are no indications of any rebel organizations in the vicinity of Culpepper Court-house, saving the occasional visits of roving bands of guerrillas.

SUPPLIES FOR SHERMAN'S ARMY.

Several transports, including the Europe and Everman, sailed from Washington and Alexandria yesterday for Beaufort, N. C., with clothing, intended for the use of Gen. SHERMAN'S army.

MAILS TO SAN FRANCISCO AND CHINA.

Postmaster-General DENISON has invited proposals for conveying the mails by means of a monthly line of first-class American seagoing steamships between San Francisco and ports in the Chinese Empire, touching at the Sandwich Islands and Japan. This service is in accordance with the act of Congress, which provided that no bid shall be considered, amounting to more than $500,000 for the twelve round trips per annum, nor unless the same is from a citizen or citizens of the United States.

Boston Wool Sales.

BOSTON, Friday, March 24.

An extensive auction sale of Cape and domestic fleece wool, to-day, attracted a large attendance. Owing to the unsettled state of the market, buyers were shy, and some of the most valuable lots were withdrawn from sale. Prices for Cape wool ranged from 35c. to 40c., and for domestic from 43c. to 81¾c., the latter figure being paid for 2,000 lbs. fine Pennsylvania. A lot of very superior Vermont wool sold for 63¾c., and 6,700 lbs. Ohio fleece, a portion of which is said to have cost $1, sold for 67¾c.@73c. Of the total catalogue, 49 lots were sold and 23 withdrawn.

SECOND DISPATCH.

BOSTON, Friday, March 24.

The wool sale to-day was well attended. The first part of the catalogue consisted of 22 lots of Cape wool. Some 430 bales brought 36c.@37¾c. ℔ lb; 20 bales 38c.; 20 bales 40c.; and then 310 bales were withdrawn. Then 4,000 lbs. medium and fine Western fleece sold for 60c.@66¾c., and 9,000 lbs. were withdrawn. Of Medium Ohio 2,000 lbs. sold at 76c.; and 10,000 lbs. coarse Ohio at 57c.; 600 lbs. unwashed at 40c.; 2,000 lbs. fine Pennsylvania at 80½c.; 20,000 lbs. medium at 75c.; and 2,000 lbs. coarse at 69½c. Michigan 6,000 lbs at 67c.@70½c.; Ohio fleece 40,000 lbs. at 67½c.@70¾c.; 6,470 lbs. Vermont fleece very superior, 63c.; also, some 30 other lots of different descriptions, including 27,000 lbs. Ohio fleece, very light, at 71½c.@73c. This last it was stated, was bought in Ohio at 61 ℔ lb., and 11 bags Western pulled Wool was sold for 55.2c., for which 60c. was refused last week. About 20 lots of different varieties were withdrawn.

In Burlaps, sales 80 pieces, at 8¼c. Ohio for 12½c., ten ounce for 14½c., ten half-ounce for 15¾c., and eleven ounce for 17¼. Some 40-inch striped sheeting brought 27½c., and 12 pieces, 36-inch, 16c. Exclusive of the Cape wool, 49 lots were sold and 23 withdrawn.

TROWBRIDGE'S NEW BOOK—"THE THREE SCORE."—The scene of this stirring narrative is laid in the State of Tennessee during the second year of the rebellion. The events of the war in that region afford material for a variety of spirited sketches, and are here wrought up by the author with his usual skill in dramatic delineation and picturesque effect. His work cannot fail to occupy a high place among the numerous successful stories which have turned the facts of history to more impressive purposes than are often realized by the inventions of fiction.—New-York Tribune.

OFFICIAL.
DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, March 21, 1865.

The following extract from a dispatch, and the accompanying inclosure, received at this Department from Mr. Charles H. Upton, the Consul of the United States at Geneva, Switzerland, concerning the tomb of a Mr. JOHN CHARLES HALSEY, of New-York, who is unknown to this Department, is published for the information of parties concerned.

EXTRACT.

No. 26. U. S. CONSULATE, Geneva, Feb. 1, 1865.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a notice which was sent to me by the directors of the Geneva Hospital, who also have charge of the Protestant Cemetery at this place. The burial sites at this cemetery cannot be had in perpetuity, and the longest lease of them is for ninety-nine years, at a cost of 1,500 francs; shortest leases for thirteen years, renewable for the same period, cost 300 francs. I visited the tomb indicated in this notice, and found it one of the neatest and most costly in the grounds. The pedestal is a square block of stone, and is surmounted by a column of marble, representing a broken shaft; upon one of the sides of the pedestal is the inscription, and upon the opposite side, set in the block, is a medallion likeness in white marble.

* * * * *

With high regard, your obedient servant.
(Signed) CHARLES H. UPTON.
Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.

TRANSLATION.

The directors of the Geneva Hospital have the honor to inform you that the regular course of interments in the Protestant Cemetery will lead immediately upon the site occupied by the tomb of Mr. JOHN CHARLES HALSEY, of New-York, buried in 1837. The articles which are upon this tomb must therefore be removed, and the ground will be occupied for a new burial, unless the family have beforehand obtained a concession of one or more periods.

SUCCESS IN BUSINESS.

No business can be truly successful which is not founded on a real fitness of things. The article made or sold must have intrinsic merit and supply a public want. Success issuing from the clap-trap of advertising, or the tricks of trade, or mere pretension and display, will be only apparent, and, in the end, but deceive the operator and those who trust him. But if an article supplies a public want and fairly meets its reasonable expectations, its success and general adoption is merely a question of time. It may be retarded by adverse influences or sped by prospering gales, but in the end it is sure to win.

HUMPHREY'S HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFICS had their origin in a great public want—medicines for all the common wants of enlightened life—curatives that father, mother, nurse or traveler could always have with them, and always rely upon—so simple that mistake could not be made in the selection, so harmless that all might use them with impunity, and so efficient that all might rely upon them with safety. Such they have proved. Thousands of families use them daily for all the ailments and sicknesses of life, and rarely are seriously sick, or have need to call a physician. Thousands, taking some single Specific, have cured themselves of chronic diseases which have been the bane of their lives, and upon which they have spent hundreds in vain, and among the millions who use them, none are found to question their purity or efficacy.

HUMPHREYS' SPECIFICS
combine all the advantages of the best Homeopathic treatment, without its intricacy or uncertainty. They are prepared by a physician of over twenty years' Homeopathic experience; they have been tried in every conceivable manner, and they have been indorsed and recommended in the highest terms by the hundreds of thousands who daily use them.

WITH A CASE IN YOUR HOUSE,
you may prevent sickness, prevent suffering, prevent expense and loss of time, or the children having the Measles, or Scarlet Fever, or Whooping Cough, or even Fever, by using preventives in the case.

YOU MAY CURE YOUR CHILDREN
of croup, or colic, or toothache, or headache, or sleeplessness, or suffering from teething, or worms, or indigestion, or wetting the bed, or catarrh, or measles, or whooping-cough, or scarlet fever, or diphtheria, or a bad cold, or hoarseness, or running of the ears and deafness, or even scrofula, as thousands have done and do daily.

YOU MAY CURE YOURSELF
of headache, weak stomach, or indigestion, or biliousness, or catarrh, or a bad cold, or sore throat, or hoarseness, or liver complaint, or piles, or constipation, or rheumatism, or sore or weak eyes, or salt rheum, or kidney disease, or general debility, or even asthma, with these specifics.

THOUSANDS OF INVALIDS
have been perfectly cured of long-standing ailments, the plague and bane of their lives, and on which they have spent hundreds in vain, by simply using these invaluable specifics. Not a family who have ever had one of these Family cases of HUMPHREY'S SPECIFICS, but would give five times its cost, rather than be without it.

CATARRH AND ITS COMPLICATIONS.
BY
DR. S. CLESSON PRATT.
LETTER NO. V.

When we consider the nature and alarming prevalence of catarrhal disease, we feel that the importance of its timely and judicious treatment cannot be too often and persistently urged. As we have remarked in a former letter, the word catarrh does not convey anything like a correct idea of what the disease really is, when spoken of simply as a local inflammation, for it is as really a consumption of the blood, only in a less degree, as when neglected it has reached the lungs.

It secretes from the blood the poisonous matter which so characterises the disease, thus plainly indicating a sympathetic diathesis or condition of the entire body. It prostrates the system, exhausts its vital powers, and sooner or later completely deranges all the normal functions of animal life. It never looses its hold, when once fastened upon the system, without resort to such means as are indicated for its rational treatment, and all advice and expectation to the contrary are only hindrances to its ultimate cure. It as surely predisposes to pulmonary consumption, as does day precede the night; and is, in fact, the stepping-stone to that disease in eight cases out of ten. It drinks up the vitality from the blood and fluids of the wasting frame, and electrotypes its habits of body and mind indelibly upon the parent, whilst in the pale, wan features of innocent childhood, we read its transmitted tendency, and wonder why man should glory in everything but health and self-knowledge. With these facts before us, he who pretends to remove the cause or cure the disease by any single application or operation, is either a knave or a fool, and deserves the contempt of all intelligent persons, newspaper "certificates" to the contrary notwithstanding.

With every incentive to enjoyment and usefulness, there are hundreds all around us dying in the morning of life with consumption, who can look back six months, a year or longer, as the case may be, to a time when it was "nothing but catarrh." Neglected when a cure was possible, it has steadily transformed the bright, ruddy features of youth into the dull, wan listlessness of premature age, or it has drunk up the vitality from the blood and fluids of the wasting person. And now, when hope is vain and life a mockery, comes the stereotyped and hackneyed advice of "a visit to the country," "a change of climate," "a sea voyage," "a return of health in the Spring," etc. But, alas, the country referred to is that which lies beyond the confines of the festering grave and the Spring is the season that blooms eternal when life's fitful fever is over.

Do you believe the stupid assumption that catarrh will get well of itself, or is curable by "snuffing" or "inhaling" the impotent nostrums of some patent medicine vender? Remember that the catarrhal secretion depends upon a poison and humoral condition of the general system, which requires the most careful and judicious treatment, both local and general, as well.

Do you doubt the portrayal of the nature and tendency of the disease in question? Ask the poor consumptive whose sun of life is going down at noon. Read its signs in the faces of those you meet in the walks of daily life. A little while and we miss them coming; health and youth have faded from lips and cheek; the light from the dark eye has gone out; the hands are folded peacefully over the still heart; they are gone.

Have you the disease in question? Hope it will get well. Try "nitrate of silver;" try it thoroughly, and then hope on. Try liquid "catarrh remedies," and "catarrh snuffs." Try everything that's cheap and worthless; but if, perchance, such treatment should fail, make no effort to discover truth from error, but delay, postpone, neglect, wait until the lungs are attacked, and the blood is poisoned, till the physical body is crumbling away, and death stares you in the face, and then you will remember this lesson: To neglect the proper treatment of Facial Catarrh, is to die with consumption.

Respectfully,
Dr. S. CLESSON PRATT,
Author and Practitioner of Medical Hydrokonia,
For Catarrh, Throat and Bronchial Disease, No. 793 Broadway, N. Y., opposite Grace Church.

Hon. LEVI PARSONS, Ex-Judge of the Supreme Court of California, San Francisco.

The property of the company consists of a perpetual lease of about 75,000 acres of oil territory in San Luis Obispo County, California, lying on and near the Pacific Ocean, subject to a royalty to the proprietor of only one-tenth of the oil produced, less a rateable proportion of the expenses of production when pumped.

The titles of this large tract have been approved by Judge Parsons, of San Francisco, and are already vested in the company.

The report of Prof. Silliman and others, who have personally examined the property of this company, states that it is overflowing with petroleum—

"That the Ranches are splendid estates, but their value is in their almost fabulous wealth in the best of oil."

Prof. Silliman, in his report, says:

"During the past year it has fallen to my lot to investigate the oil indications over a large area of country in California. It is difficult to give even a plain statement of the facts thus observed without seeming to be carried away with enthusiasm, or infected with a spirit of exaggeration, so vast are the areas on which the oil outcrops are found, and so unmistakable the indications which declare its presence.

"When riding all day over the most beautiful grazing and wheat lands, one finds, on a given line of strike, a constantly recurring series of oil springs and great pools of petroleum in various stages of evaporation, from thin oil to thick tar, margined with a mass of tenacious tar, in which cattle are often stalled. The impression made by such facts is far stronger than can be conveyed by words. Familiar with the early history of Oil Creek from 1854, and with the oil regions of Western Virginia and Kentucky, I found all the natural indications of these regions completely dwarfed by what is laid open to the observer on the face of the earth in California.

"Both oil and tar flow spontaneously from the springs, or exist in pools, upon the Pacific Company's estate in notable quantities."

Measures are in progress to develop immediately the property of the company.

In confirmation of the above there is appended to Prof. Silliman's report a report of Col. Williamson of the property of the company, who made a survey of the same for the United States Government in 1864.

Col. Williamson, a civil engineer of established reputation, fully sustains Prof. Silliman and others in their statements as to the immense quantities of petroleum on the lands of the Pacific Petroleum Company of New-York. He also states that this is the only property on the California coast where large and invaluable deposits of the best quality of coal exist.

Subscriptions for the stock of this company will be received at the office of the undersigned, where the reports of Prof. Silliman and Col. J. Williamson may be obtained.

SCHUYLKILL COAL.

NOTICE.—The undersigned hereby respectfully notify their friends and the public that the leases from the New-York and Schuylkill Coal Company, (formerly the Forest Improvement Company,) under which they have heretofore operated various collieries in Schuylkill County, Penn., have severally expired by limitation of the same, and the Company having determined to engage in mining and selling coal, the business hereafter will be conducted by said Company.

In making this announcement, the undersigned desire to return their warmest acknowledgments to their numerous customers and friends for the liberal patronage extended to them during the last twenty-five years, and to solicit a continuance of the same in favor of the New-York and Schuylkill Coal Company, in which their senior is and will continue to be largely interested.

NOTICE.—Referring to the annexed card, the New-York and Schuylkill Company announce that, having assumed the working of the several collieries which have for many years been operated by Messrs. Chas. A. Heckscher & Co., they are now prepared to contract for the delivery, during the ensuing year, from their Wharf (14) at Richmond, on the Delaware River, near Philadelphia, of their superior White and Red Ash Schuylkill Coal. Orders respectfully solicited.

CONSUMERS' BENEFIT COAL COMPANY.

The undersigned, Trustees of the Consumers' Benefit Coal Company, having succeeded in making arrangements to procure the fee of the Audenreid Colliery, on such terms as to fully compensate for the want of the full amount of transportation expected for the present year. This will enable the company to reduce the number of shares so as to insure the delivery of coal to shareholders, as originally contemplated, believing that so beneficial and profitable an enterprise should not be abandoned, and being urged by many shareholders to continue, they propose to complete the organization in a modified form as follows:

The capital stock to be 50,000 shares, 30,000 of which will be sold at present, and the balance when the transportation facilities, now nearly completed, will enable the company to deliver for each share one ton of coal per year, at cost of mining and transportation, (which at present is about $2,) and still leave a portion to sell at market prices, as promised in former statements.

The amount of coal that can be brought to market during this year from these mines will enable the company to keep their promises in respect to delivery of coal for the number of shares that will be sold, and the additional means in progress of construction, to be completed within the year, will double that quantity.

If the present subscribers retain their shares, the company will be able to take immediate possession of the mines, and deliver coal to subscribers forthwith.

The enterprise is now more confidently recommended than as first proposed.

BROOKLY

THE CITY QUOTA.

How Recruits Yesterday—The Causes of the Trouble—One Uniform Organization—The Ward Meetings last Evening.

A coincidence of obstructions caused a very material slackening in the recruiting business yesterday. During Thursday the whole number of recruits obtained in the city was one hundred and twenty-one. Yesterday, however, the very last bounty at the Park office was paid, and the funds of the County Volunteer Committee gave out; Mr. BLUNT was gone to Albany to endeavor to arrange financial matters; the Ward or District committees are just setting their machinery in motion; and the recruits themselves, having a prudent eye to the state of the money market, and getting an impression that funds were short, did not appear. The number of recruits obtained was accordingly considerably smaller, the figures however not having been accessible in season for this morning's paper. Capt. WAGNER, of the Seventh District, obtained two recruits yesterday; Capt. KOSTER, of the Sixth, eleven. At a late hour last night Mr. BLUNT had not returned, and what he has accomplished at Albany we cannot say.

Recruits should take notice that although the Park Recruiting Committee fund gave out yesterday, yet money is still in the hands of some at least of the District Provost-Marshals, and both bounty and hand-money are still forthcoming.

As to the question, drafts or no draft? the gentlemen officially interested and informed concur in the belief that the city contains an abundant supply of proper men to fill its quota. The principal reason why they do not just now come in faster since drafting began is, that as soon as the draft was commenced every one intending to volunteer waited, in order to get more money as a substitute.

It is also doubtless true that the obvious approach of the end of the war causes a relaxation of interest and exertion among the citizens. The very same consideration, of course, tends to make the recruit more willing to enlist, since he will earn his bounty in a shorter time.

As, however, the Government must have men, and must have them soon, it behooves the city to bestir itself; for if things could go on as they did yesterday a day or two, the draft would surely be upon us.

The agencies now in operation for this purpose are probably sufficiently extensive. But there is a very general opinion that, instead of disconnected ward or district organizations, the richer ones bidding recruits away from the poorer, the whole city should be brought under one single organization, to be based on the present local ones, and which should provide one harmonious system, and one rate of hand-money throughout. It is believed that this could be easily accomplished if some person sufficiently well known, and having a talent for organization, would devote half a day or a day to the proper negotiations. A good plan thought out beforehand, and one consultation with say twelve influential men—two from each District Committee—would close the business up.

MEETING IN THE FIFTH WARD.

The Executive Volunteering Committee of the Fifth Ward met at LAIRD'S Fifth Ward Hotel last evening: Dr. WM. B. EAGER in the chair. The Finance Committee reported $2,000 as the amount of the subscription up to 6 o'clock, and the Recruiting Committee made known their ability to supply fifteen recruits daily. Major WATSON, of the regular army, assured the association that they must induce the county-brokers to aid the Ward Committee. The brokers, who make a business of finding men, know where recruits may be found, and they take volunteers where they can get the greatest amount of money; it therefore behooved the committee at once to consult men who are ipthe business of supplying men. The Ward Committee will meet every evening until further notice, at headquarters, No. 109 Hudson-street, and the amount of hand-money which the ward will pay may be learned of Col. M. C. MURPHY, at the same headquarters.

MEETING IN THE EIGHTH WARD.

A meeting of the citizens of the Eighth Ward was held, last evening, at Spring-street Hall, for the purpose of taking measures to fill the quota of the ward.

Dr. ROBINSON nominated Ex-Alderman WILLIAM TUCKER as Chairman, who was unanimously elected.

The chairman made a short address, explanatory of the object of the meeting.

Dr. ROBINSON said that yesterday he learned from the Provost-Marshal's office that unless the rate of enlistments increased, and that by Tuesday next 200 men were enlisted daily, the draft would be enforced.

The Chairman appointed a Finance and Executive Committee, for the purpose of raising funds and taking measures to fill the quota.

Patriotic resolutions were adopted, and speeches were made by Capt. EBHARDT, J. MCCLELLAN, JOHN H. STAATS, and others.

MEETING FOR THE NINTH AND FIFTEENTH WARDS.

A large and spirited meeting of citizens of the Ninth and Fifteenth Wards was held last evening at Bleecker Buildings, Alderman CHIPP in the chair.

The Secretary read the list of subscriptions by citizens of the two Wards, amounting in the aggregate to about $6,000.

Col. CONKLING addressed the meeting, and said he had never seen the day since this cursed rebellion was inaugurated, that he was not willing to speak or fight for the old flag. They had met to perform a duty that was more important than all others—to fill up the army with volunteers to take the place of those whose time has expired, or who lie in unmarked graves. He believed the end was approaching, and it was the duty of all who were able to respond to this call of the Government. For his part he stood ready to respond at twenty-four hours' notice to a call from the Government. The great duty of the evening was to subscribe money. Since the war began he has been continually contributing toward the support of the Government. He had raised a regiment at his own expense, and twice taken it into the field. He had now come forward to give such sum as he was able.

Mr. ERASTUS C. BENEDICT made a short speech.

JAMES W. FARR, chairman of the committee appointed at a former meeting, said meetings had been held every night by the committees of the Sixteenth, Ninth and Fifteenth Wards, and an agreement made by which the recruits obtained are divided pro rata. Before Monday last, the number of men secured in the district was about five or six; since Monday about twenty men a day have been obtained. If that number is continued, the draft will not be enforced. He suggested that a tax of ten dollars be levied on all persons liable to the draft, which would free the district.

Mr. CAMPBELL made some pertinent inquiries of the committee, asking whether, if a portion of the quota was filled, any discrimination would be made in favor of poor men, who could not afford to pay for a substitute. If it was known that the men enlisted would be substituted for poor men, many of them would contribute liberally. At present, they are uncertain whether, if they contribute now, they will not also have to furnish a substitute. He had not learned of any of the wealthy drafted men having procured substitutes.

Col. CONKLING, in replying, said that many of the drafted men of the district had procured substitutes, at an expense of $1,050 each. He believed the entire quota of the district would be filled; at the present time, more men are offering themselves than can be accepted by the Provost-Marshal. From information received by him, he believed the late draft would be set aside, even though the call of the Government was to be filled.

Mr. JAMES W. FARR, formerly Provost-Marshal of the Sixth District, said he differed from Col. CONKLING, in thinking that the late draft would be set aside. The draft was a mistake—a drunken mistake—It was never intended to make a draft in this city while recruiting was brisk. The man who ordered the draft has been removed, and will never be able, in this county, to issue another order. He said that the man who ordered the draft was not Capt. THEODORE BRONSON, formerly Provost-Marshal of the Sixth District. His name was Capt. H. F. BROWNSON, of New-Jersey.

On motion of Mr. FARR, a resolution was unanimously passed that each drafted man pay $325, none but conscripts voting. Many drafted men came forward and paid $25 each.

Capt. CARTER said that the quota of the district had been reduced 225 men since the draft took place.

It was stated that Mr. BLUNT had proceeded to Albany to get a portion of the State bounty, to be paid to the counties. Also that the Comptroller yesterday obtained $200,000 on the county volunteer loan.

The Chairman announced that it was expected that a mass meeting of the district would be held next week, probably at the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment.

The total amount contributed in the two wards at present is between eight and nine thousand dollars.

MEETING IN THE SEVENTEENTH WARD.

A meeting to encourage enlistments was held by the citizens of the Seventeenth Ward last evening, at the Henry Clay House, corner of Avenue A and First-street. Mr. CHARLES G. CORNELL presided, and Mr. GEO. F. STEINBRENNER acted as Secretary.

Mr. CORNELL briefly explained the objects of the meeting, and the Secretary stated that at a preliminary meeting of the citizens of the ward held at Cooper Institute, on Wednesday evening, March 22, it was resolved that each enrolled citizen should be taxed in the sum of $10, and that the wealthier class of our citizens should be appealed to, liberally to subscribe to a fund necessary to procure volunteers.

Provost-Marshal WAGNER was then introduced. He said he must remind them that the quota of the district amounted to over 2,600 men. His orders were not to draft so long as he was kept busy in receiving recruits, but for the last four days he had not been kept busy. Yesterday he received but two men. Twenty men per day would keep him to work, and if these were not forthcoming, the wheel would be in motion again in less than a week.

Mr. TABOR, Mr. FAY, Alderman JEREMIAH and Councilman GROSS spoke during the evening, and a subscription was afterward taken up, amounting to several hundred dollars.

The next meeting will take place on Tuesday next, at Germania Hall.

The headquarters of the Finance Committee are at No. 21 Bible House, where subscriptions may be handed in.

FILLING THE QUOTA IN THE EIGHTEENTH WARD.

To the Editor of the New-York Times.:

In reading your report of the proceedings of the ward meetings last night, I am gratified with the action taken on the patriotism manifested by our citizens in determining to fill our quota without a draft. Many of the wards are reported as collecting three thousand dollars and over, large subscriptions named by individuals, &c. I wish to correct the report of the Eighteenth Ward, in which it is stated $2,500 was collected, while in the Nineteenth, $3,000 was obtained, one subscription being for $500. In the Eighteenth Ward, nearly double $2,500 was collected, and that without any large subscriptions, as it was determined that all should be allowed to add their mites. Thus $4,600 was returned, many of the amounts not being over $5 to $10. All that is reasonably required will be forthcoming. The Finance Committee named are the right kind of men for the work, and if need be, every citizen of the ward will be called on. Subscriptions were announced by two ladies of ten dollars each. Let this example be followed by our wives and daughters, as well as by every true man, and we shall have no draft.

EIGHTEENTHWARDER.

Police Trials.

BEFORE COMMISSIONERS ACTON, BERGEN AND M'MURRAY.

Police trials having been omitted last week to enable the officers to attend the Provost-marshals offices on the occasion of the draft, the numbers of cases presented this week were, of course doubled, and the trial-room on Thursday and Friday densely thronged.

IN THE BOUNTY BROKERAGE LINE.

Officer BERNARD DUNN, of the Forty-third Precinct, (Brooklyn,) appeared before the commissioners and made affidavit that on the 16th of February last, one BROWNRIGG was apprehended for passing spurious Treasury notes to Mr. THOMAS TURNER, of Brooklyn; that BROWNRIGG was taken to the Forty-third Precinct Police Station, and there held; that Capt. RHODES and Sergeant HAGGERTY learned that there were other persons within their reach who had been engaged in counterfeiting; and that on the morning of the 17th the Sergeant and the deponent sought these persons and arrested one VON SCHLICK, a canal boatman; that VON SCHLICK was taken before Justice PERRY and released from constraint, the evidence against him being defective; that instead of taking the prisoner BROWNRIGG before United States Marshal MURRAY, Sergeant HAGGERTY sent him to a recruiting office, and promised if he realized $400 from the transaction, to give the deponent $200; that subsequently he told the deponent that BROWNRIGG did not pass, because of rupture, and had been handed over to a New-York bounty broker; that several days thereafter Sergeant HAGGERTY informed deponent that BROWNRIGG had been enlisted in New-York, and was then on Hart's Island, and that the recruit intended to send him (the Sergeant) and the deponent $150, in consideration of their having made no charge against him before the United States Marshal. Officer DUNN'S affidavit was corroborated by that of Policeman O'TOOLE; and after Capt. RHODES had been examined and permitted to say that under the District-Attorney's instructions he used BROWNRIGG as a witness merely, President ACTON said that the Board of commissioners regarded the proceedings at the Forty-third Precinct Station-house as altogether questionable, since it seemed that the Captain and Sergeant had manifested a desire to enlist the prisoner BROWNRIGG, rather than present him before the United States authorities as a counterfeiter. It was, in the Commissioners' opinion, a case which had an offensive odor, to say the least. The commissioners reserved their decision, as usual.

THE UNION CELEBRATION.

Mr. GILBERT PLOWMAN, of No. 19 Bethune-street, entered complaint against Officer GUNSON, of the Fifth Precinct, because of an arrest on the afternoon of the 6th inst., at the hour when the great Union procession was passing down Broadway. The evidence was, substantially, that while Officer GUNSON was striving to push back the multitude at the intersection of Canal-street and Broadway, it became necessary to exhibit a persuasive club; that Mr. PLOWMAN inquired of the person to whom the officer had shown his baton why he did not demand the policeman's number, and thereupon Officer GUNSON arrested Mr. PLOWMAN, and took him to the Fifth Ward Police Station. The Sergeant in charge at the station-house released Mr. PLOWMAN, the charge against him not warranting imprisonment. Officer GUNSON said in justification that Mr. PLOWMAN'S manner at the time of the arrest was that of a person who might provoke a riot, and that he had deemed it his duty to make the arrest. The Commissioners sustained the arrest, but censured the officer for omitting to render his official number whenever required.

At the close of the lecture, the thanks of the pupils was tended to Prof. DOREMUS, and after two young ladies had read original composition, and sung several pieces of music, the school was dismissed.

LAW REPORTS.

The Singer Divorce Case Again in Court.

SUBREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Judge Leonard.

Isaac M. Singer vs. Catharine M. Singer.—The plaintiff in this action is the well-known manufacturer of sewing-machines. In the month of January, 1860, he obtained a divorce from his wife Catharine, on the ground of adultery. The proofs which were produced at that time, as to the wife's being guilty of the crime charged upon her, were of so positive and direct a character that it left no alternative for the court but to grant a decree of divorce, for the only course which, by the laws of this State, an absolute divorce can be obtained. The particulars of the case had some publicity at the time through the daily journals, but the circumstances had nearly passed from mind, until a few weeks ago, when Mrs. Singer, through her counsel, made a motion upon several affidavits to have the judgment opened, and that she be let in to defend.

The principal ground upon which the court was asked to grant this motion was, that the decree had been obtained by collusion and fraud. The motion was first made before Judge INGRAHAM, and after hearing the affidavits and arguments in behalf of Mrs. Singer, he denied the motion. Again on Thursday last, the motion was renewed on behalf of Mrs. Singer, by her counsel, Mr. H. Selden. Additional affidavits were read in support of the motion, of which the following are the substantial facts stated:

Catharine M. Singer, the defendant, in her affidavit, states that in the suit for divorce, in which judgment was obtained against her, she put in an answer denying the adultery charged in the complaint; that on the 23d of January, 1860, her counsel, Mr. Lambier, called on her and stated that he could obtain $10,000 for her if she would consent to have the judgment of divorce entered against her; that her counsel advised her to take this sum while she could get it; that Mr. Singer, the plaintiff, was in failing circumstances, and it could not be expected that he would long hold out this inducement; that acting upon this advice, she agreed to receive that sum; she further testified that it was untrue as sworn to before the referee, that she committed adultery with Stephen P. Kent, and that all the allegations of adultery charged against her in the plaintiff's complaint, are false.

Mr. Alexander Singer testified that he was about 30 years of age, and a son of the parties; that in July, 1863, his father came to him at Singer & Co.'s sewing-machine factory, where he was employed, and told him that his mother had again commenced proceedings, but that he would beat her, as she had neither money nor energy, while he had both; plaintiff then told him that he had married again; his son asked him how long he had been married, and he said about a month, but that Isabel, his wife, was about to become a mother; that she had traveled with him as a companion through Europe for about two years, and he had married so as to defeat his mother, as by bringing an innocent party in the case he would have the sympathy of the court. The son then asked his father how many children he had by his women, and he said about twenty; he told his son he would want him to act right in this matter; a few days after he again called on deponent and told him he wanted him to make an affidavit in the case; the son asked the father to let him remain neutral; Mr. Singer told him if he would do what he wanted him to, he would give him a furnished house and make him a rich man; he gave him his choice, saying: "Take your choice, your mother with poverty, or me with riches;" the son again said he wanted to remain neutral, but if he had to take his choice, he would not perjure himself; at this Mr. Singer became violently angry, said his son was the wickedest of men and the silliest of fools: he was very abusive, and threatened to murder him, if he hung as high as Haman the next hour.

Angelina Singer testified that she is the daughter of the parties to the action; that she was present when Edward Clark, a former partner of her father, offered to pay her mother $10,000 if she would consent to have a decree of divorce entered against her.

Stephen P. Kent's affidavit was read; he testified that in January, 1860, he called by request on Mr. Lambier, the Attorney at that time for the defendant; the Attorney told him to go with him before the referee in the case, and if he was asked if he had been guilty of the crime of adultery with the defendant, he was to say "yes;" he went before the referee, and testified that he had committed the crime, specifying the times and places. He now swore that what he then testified to was false in every particular.

The motion was argued yesterday by Mr. David Dudley Field for the plaintiff; and by Mr. H. Selden in favor of the motion to reopen the decree of divorce.

The court took the papers, and reserved his decision.

Damages for Fast Driving Through the Streets—The Rights of Pedestrians in Crossing Streets Defined—The City Ordinance as to the Rate of Speed of Vehicles.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Mullen and a Jury.

James Carroll, by his Guardian, &c., vs. Hugh Killen.—The plaintiff in this action, who is a child about 8 years of age, appeared in court, by his father, Michael Carroll, as his guardian, to recover the sum of $10,000 damages, which it is alleged had been sustained under the following circumstances:

On the 1st day of October last, the lad, James Carroll, while attempting to cross the Fourth-avenue in the vicinity of Eighth-street, was run over by a cart owned by defendant, and driven by a son of his. The lad was very badly injured, his skull having been fractured in several places, and his hip and other portions of his body so much bruised and mangled that he was laid up for a long time. The medical testimony went to show that he would never be a well person. There was a great conflict of testimony on the trial. The defendant is a well-known butcher of this city, and it was an ordinary cart of his that run over the boy. Several substantial men of the city, who witnessed the occurrence, testified that there were two butcher carts—one besides the defendant's—driving up the avenue at the rate of speed of about eight miles an hour; that defendant's cart was about twenty feet behind the other; that the forward cart or the horse attached to it, knocked the boy down, and passed over some portion of his body, and that defendant's cart passed over the boy while he was prostrated; in the judgment of the witnesses, the driver of the defendants cart might have avoided running over the lad. The witnesses for defendant said the boy, while crossing the street, caught his foot in the railroad track, and fell, just as the forward cart came up, and although the carts were going at the rate of only about five miles per hour, there was not time to avoid the accident after the boy fell. A motion was made on the part of the defendant's counsel for a nonsuit, on the grounds, first, that by the plaintiff's own showing there was negligence on the part of the boy; and second, that no negligence had been shown on the part of the defendant.

The Court denied the motion for a nonsuit, and, in submitting the case to the jury, stated to them in substance that, to enable the plaintiff to maintain the action, he must satisfactorily prove to their minds that he was not in fault; that he had been guilty of no negligence or want of care; and must also satisfy them as to the further fact that the defendant's negligence or recklessness was the sole cause of the accident. And, although if the allegation of carelessness on the part of the defendant was sustained, yet if the carelessness or negligence of the boy in any way contributed to produce the sad results complained of, then the plaintiff could not recover. The plaintiff must come into court with clean hands, and he must by proof sustain the position, that through no fault of his, but that owing to the carelessness, unskillfulness, &c., of the defendant, the injuries were produced. In this connection, the court laid down the law as to the rights of pedestrians in crossing the streets. An ordinance of the Common Council of this city had been put in evidence. The jury could give it what weight they saw fit.

The ordinance mentioned prohibits, under a penalty for each offence, the driving of any carriage, cart or other vehicle through the streets of this city, at a greater rate of speed than six miles per hour; and in turning corners all vehicles to be driven no faster than a walk.

In commenting upon this, the court said it was preposterous to suppose that the business of this great metropolis could be, at all times, transacted by driving horses on a walk. But on the other hand, in a crowded city like this, where so many pedestrians were constantly crossing and recrossing the streets, the drivers of vehicles must remember that the rights of others were to be considered. A point had been made by the defendant, that when the accident occurred, the boy was not on the cross-walk, but was attempting to cross the street in the middle of the block,—in other words that he was where he had no business to be. The Judge said the cross-walk was made for the comfort and convenience of pedestrians undoubtedly; but from this it did not follow that a person on foot had no right to cross the street elsewhere. The street was for the accommodation of the traveling public, and a pedestrian had a right to walk in, or across it, at all times and places, but he must use reasonable care and diligence in so doing, and if by any carelessness or want of forethought in the exercise of that right he was injured, he could not successfully seek redress in a court of justice.

After some deliberation, the jury rendered a verdict of $1,500 damages for the plaintiff.

For the plaintiff, Messrs Kaufman, Frank and Wilcox; for the defendant, Mr. Luke F. Cozans.

Verdict Against an Insurance Company.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge McCunn and a Jury.

John Ramirez vs. The Nassau Fire Insurance Company, of Brooklyn.—This trial, the particulars of which were published in the TIMES of Friday, has been concluded. The jury rendered a verdict against the company for $1,496 44, the full amount claimed. Upon the rendition of the verdict, the counsel for the plaintiff, Mr. Francis H. Dykis, moved for an allowance of 5 per cent., which the court granted.

Wills Admitted to Probate.

Before Surrogate Tucker.

Wills of the following named persons have been admitted: Theodore Koster, Joseph Warren Paine, B. Haggenberger, Mrs. Sarah Palmer, John K. Whelpley, Maria Heard, Sigmund Courtin, Sidney S. Burchsted, Melsar P. Delano, Henry Adolph Kimme, Edward Kreisel and James Feeley. None of these wills contain bequests of any public importance.

An Action Against the City for Services.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Before Judge McCunn without a Jury.

Thomas A. Parker vs. The Mayor, &c.—The plaintiff brought the action to recover for services rendered as an officer of the Court of Common Pleas. The defendants claim that by a resolution of the Court of Common Pleas, the plaintiff was dismissed from service on the 1st of November, 1864, and that another officer named Harrington was appointed in his place, and that Harrington has since occupied the position and discharged the duties. Plaintiff claims that he was never legally discharged, and seeks to recover salary since the first of November last. One of the points made by defendant's counsel was, that even admitting the plaintiff had a good cause of action, he had brought his suit against the wrong parties; it should have been brought against the Board of Supervisors of the county, and not against the Mayor and Aldermen. The decision is reserved.

Superior Court Decisions.

SPECIAL TERM.

Frederick Hazleton vs. Marcus Colburn; motion for a new trial denied, with $10 costs.

Before Judge McCunn.

Henry Homestein vs. The Mayor, &c.—In this case I am satisfied that the evidence does not sustain the verdict. I therefore deem it my duty to order a new trial.

Supreme Court Decisions.

Before Judge Leonard, at Chambers.

Anne Rodgers vs. Wm. H. Rodgers.—This matter he referred to the referee already appointed to hear and decide, for the purpose of taking evidence as to the means of the defendant, &c., and to report the proofs, with his opinion, on the question of alimony and counsel fee.

Henry Schondorff vs. Samuel Peck.—The bill is correctly adjusted, except the item for the fees of defendant, House, as a witness. That should have been disallowed and must be stricken out.

Wm. Jullinghaus vs. Gustavus Schardt.—Bill of costs taxed—(see opinion.)

Criminal Business—Important Presentment of the Grand Jury—Causes of Crime in the Metropolis.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russel.

At the opening of the Court yesterday morning, Assistant District Attorney Bedford moved for sentence on Roger Lamb, recently convicted of murder in the first degree. The Clerk then asked Lamb what he had to say why sentence of the law should not be passed upon him. Mr. Abraham S. Cohen, for the prisoner, stated that after conversation with the unfortunate man, and consultation with his associate, Mr. Keatzing, he deemed it his duty to reiterate the statement made by Lamb to him, and of the truth of which he had no doubt, that Lamb killed his wife in a moment when half drazed with jealousy and frenzied with excitement, but he never intended the dreadful consequences of that blow. At this time and place Roger Lamb had nothing further to say why the sentence of the law should not be passed upon him.

His Honor said that after a patient investigation the jury had found the prisoner guilty of murder in the first degree, and the evidence showed conclusively not only that he killed his wife, but that he intended to kill her when he struck the fatal blow. His life was, therefore, forfeit to the laws of the country. The sentence of the Court was that Roger Lamb be taken back from the place whence he came, there to be safely kept and detained until the 5th day of May next, and that he then be taken out and hanged by the neck until he was dead.

The death warrant was then read, and the prisoner delivered to the Sheriff.

James Foster was tried for burglary in the first degree.

Mr. John Owen, the complainant, testified that he lived at No. 3 Sylvan place, Harlem, and that on the 23d of February last his dwelling-house was entered in the night, and $28 worth of silver was stolen. The window fastening was found to have been broken, and the pieces of the catch were on the floor in the room.

Margaret Butler, a servant employed in Mr. Owen's family, testified that it was her business to fasten the windows before retiring to bed. On the night of the burglary she fastened the windows securely.

The next morning, when she went into the kitchen to make the fire, she found the window open, the basement door open and all the silver gone.

Officer Bates testified that he arrested the prisoner on the morning of the 23d, on Third-avenue, near One Hundred and Thirteenth-street, about seven blocks from Mr. Owens' house. On his person was found the property afterward identified by Mr. Owen as having been stolen from his house.

Council for the prisoner contended that the indictment charged that the burglary was committed on the 21st of February, and the evidence showed that it had been committed on the 22d of February. The prisoner's story was that he had found the property in the street.

The jury found the prisoner guilty, and His Honor sent him to the State's prison for ten years.

Peter Brennan was tried for grand larceny, having stolen nearly three thousand dollars from a man named Thomson. The complainant testified that he went to the saloon of a man named Combs, and went to sleep in a private room. While there asleep the prisoner and another man entered the room and robbed him. Combs, who kept the saloon, testified that he saw the prisoner enter the private room and take the money. Combs pursued the prisoner, and had him arrested. The jury convicted him, and he was sent to the State's prison for two years.

Charles Johnson pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny. Prisoner snatched a watch from a man in the street on the 8th of March last. He was sent to the State Prison for two years and six months.

Margaret Tucker was tried for stealing a watch from a man named Kelly. Kelly testified that he met the prisoner in Catharine-street, and stepped aside with her into an alley. He had his watch when he went into the alley, but when he came out the watch was gone. The woman confessed to the officer that she had taken the watch. She was convicted and sent to the Penitentiary for six months.

The Grand Jury of the county came into court and announced that they had finished their work. The foreman then handed to the court the following presentment:

The Grand Jury in concluding their duties feel it obligatory upon them in their relation to the court and the people, to present their profound conviction that the main source of vice and crime, and one of the principal causes of taxation in this county, is the imperfection of the laws in relation to the sale of fermented and alcoholic intoxicants or the inefficiency evinced in the execution of the laws on this subject found upon the statute books. It is notorious that existing laws in relation to the sale of intoxicating liquors are set at open defiance; while this traffic is one of the principal sources of pauperism, taxation and crime, and is held by the law subject to regulation and control, unbridled license in the sale of intoxicating stimulants, regardless of all legal enactment, is the rule, and conformity to its requirement the exception. In this great city. This is not the case only on the ordinary days of business, when the community are accustomed to the turmoil of traffic; but on the Sunday, the day of rest, that should be freed from the temptations and disquiet incident to the sale of liquor, the trade is carried on under the disguise of concert saloons, gardens and sacred concerts—some of these places, the vilest dens of a great metropolis, flaunting their meritorious attractions openly before the public; and by the dram-shops, many of which, though nominally closed, are virtually open to all comers. To be obliged, as this Grand Jury has been, to indict for offences against person and property, those who procured the incentives to crime from the parties relied upon to convict them, has been one of the most revolting parts of their sworn duty. We would call the attention of the lawmakers and its administrators to these evils, so rife in this city, that, if practicable, legal remedy may be applied, and in conclusion, to the admirable recommendation and observations of a former Grand Inquest that, "were patrolmen required to close every dram-shop, whose keeper fails to exhibit a license for his traffic, it is believed that a chronic evil of gigantic magnitude would be abated, with no injustice to offenders, but with untold benefits to society. The Grand Jury cannot perceive why a junk-cart or a hackney coach lacking an inscribed number, or a list of fares, should be summarily ejected from the streets, while those streets are lined and covered by establishments notoriously violating similar but more stringent and more needful laws with impunity. Our only safety as a city lies in the equal administration of just laws, and in the subjection of all classes to rightful authority.

Signed by T. S. YOUNG, Foreman.
DAVID TERRY, Sec'y.

His Honor ordered this presentment to be filed, and the Grand Jury were discharged for the term. The Court adjourned until Monday morning.

Removal of the Corporation Attorney.

Mr. N. Hill Fowler, Corporation Attroney, has been removed from office by the Corporation Counsel, for reasons set forth in the following letter. Mr. George Shea, of the firm of Richardson and Shea has been appointed in Mr. Fowler's place:

LAW DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF COUNSEL OF THE CORPORATION, March 20.

N. Hill Fowler, Esq., Corporation Attorney:

SIR—The Senate of this State recently appointed, as you are aware, a committee to investigate the various departments, except the Department of the City Government. Soon after the meeting of this committee I addressed it the following communication:

CITY OF NEW-YORK, LAW DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF COUNSEL TO THE CORPORATION, Feb. 1.

Hon. Geo. G. Munger, Chairman of the Select Committee, &c.:

DEAR SIR—I am informed that the resolution under which the Special Committee of which you are Chairman is now examining into the operations of the government of the city, does not embrace this department. If this be so, both personally and officially, I regret the omission. This department is so intimately connected with the practical workings of the other departments of the City Government that an examination of them necessarily involves, to some extent, an investigation of it without its head, or any of its other officers being present, or parties thereto. This, as you will readily perceive, might produce unwarranted results or opinions in regard to those officers, which the opportunity to explain might have prevented or would correct.

Then, again, if I might venture to make a suggestion, it would seem to be almost impossible to obtain a thorough insight into city affairs and the operations of the government of this municipality, without examining all the main parts of which its machinery is composed.

Under these circumstances I take the liberty of requesting your committee to consider this department as covered by the resolution of the Senate, or if that cannot property be done, that your committee should ask the Senate to adopt a supplementary resolution embracing this department. Truly yours,

JOHN E. DEVELIN, Counsel to the Corporation.

This letter was published in the journals of the city the day after it was forwarded to the committee, and of course came to your notice. At the session of the Committee on Saturday, the 18th inst., you appeared as a witness, and your examination was as follows: "Mr. N. Hill Fowler, Corporation Attorney, was sworn.—He said that, as he belonged to the Law Department of the City Government, and as the committee were not empowered to investigate that department, he objected to give any testimony in relation to it."

Your conduct, as thus reported, was not only disrespectful to the committee and to the Senate of the State of which it was the representative, but was also against the expressed wish of this department, injurious to its efficiency, and a public scandal which ought not to go unrebuked.

I therefore remove you from the office of Corporation Attorney. Your obedient servant,

JOHN E. DEVELIN, Counsel to the Corporation.

A HINT TO BOTH SEXES—HOW TO GAIN AND RETAIN AFFECTION.—It has frequently been suggested that Plantation Bitters are, in another form, the "Elixir of Love" of the Ancients. That they do much to quiet "family jars," and reconcile fretful wives to cross husbands, we verily believe. When domestic quiet is restored and connubial felicity reigns supreme,

"How great the charm, how sweet the bliss
That finds expression in a kiss."

A free and proper use of Plantation Bitters will inspire the souls of both sexes with pure and high-toned sentiments of affection, and a capacity for rare and exquisite enjoyment in each other's society. Remember there
